Business Demands Tax Repeal and Modification

PLACES BLAME FOR RECESSION ON NEW DEAL

Aldrich, N. Y. Banker, Asks Return of Gold Standard, Levy Adjustments.

HITS UTILITY SHACKLES

Program Held Necessary to Bring 'True Recovery' For All of Nation.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Leading bankers and industrialists, blaming the current business recession on policies of the Roosevelt administration, advanced a "repeal and modification" program today, which they claimed would bring recovery.

Their spokesman was Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank, who declared that "if the existing laws which hamper business recovery should be promptly repealed or adequately modified, the automatic result would be that industrial production would increase and that the existing business depression would be checked—a result which would benefit every member of the community."

Lists Proposals.

Aldrich demanded a return to the gold standard, a balanced budget, repeal of the undistributed profits tax, modification of the capital gains tax and the freeing of public utilities from government competition. He declared that a balanced budget was the chief factor, and that if the treasury reached that goal, "the cornerstone of the foundation of true business recovery will have been laid."

Aldrich addressed the 169th annual dinner meeting of the New York state Chamber of Commerce, of which he is president, and in the audience of 800 were:

John D. Rockefeller, his brother-in-law, and two of Rockefeller's sons, Lawrence and Nelson; Charles R. Gay, president of the New York stock exchange; Colby M. Chester, chairman of General Foods; Tom Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel corporation; Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machine corporation and of the International Chamber of Commerce; Thomas L. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Insurance company; and many other banking, industrial and business leaders.

Sees Plan Fail.

Aldrich referred to suggestions emanating from Washington that revision of the tax laws be limited

HAS SON JAILED

Father Swears Out Forgery Charge Against Boy, 22.

A second hand automobile and a new suit of clothes today were the basis of a forgery charge filed in municipal court by a Mansfield father against his 22-year-old son.

Edward Kahill, 47 Harker street, arraigned in municipal court yesterday, pleaded guilty to forgery and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,500 bond. Unable to furnish bond, he was committed to county jail. The affidavit was signed by William Kahill.

Kahill testified that he took his father's bank book and on four different occasions had withdrawn a total of $105 from his parent's account at the Citizens National Bank and Trust company.

He said he used the money to buy a second hand automobile, a new suit of clothes and some food.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, seeking to determine if anyone received fees for helping obtain the parole of prisoners in Ohio penal institutions, requested today an audit of prisoners' funds at Ohio penitentiary and the London prison farm.

Safety Director Eliot Ness

Scores of businessmen await a call to testify before a special grand jury in Cleveland—investigating labor rackets on a national scale This fact was disclosed by Cleveland's youthful safety director, Eliot Ness, former G-man, as he presented results of a four-month investigation to the Cleveland prosecutor. Heading the list of business agents slated for questioning are John McGee and Don A. Campbell. Labor union organizations as well as businessmen have joined in efforts to wipe out rackets that retard industry—chiefly building. According to Ness, his investigation has disclosed alleged extortion and intimidation in building construction, coupled with vandalism, involving large sums. The business agents mentioned, however, assert that the investigation is made in an effort to smash unions.

CAN YOU DONATE COURT A STAMP?

Checks for approximately a thousand dollars are laying in the municipal court safe today—in fact, they've been there for several days—because the court hasn't any money to buy stamps to mail them out to the persons for whom they're intended.

They are trusteeship checks—payments on debts made by Mansfielders through the court, acting as trustee.

But the court is broke, and hasn't had a postage stamp to call its own for three weeks. Tuesday night, council was asked to approve a supplemental appropriation of $110 to the court for stamps and stationery, but it deferred action on it, because the city hasn't any too much money itself.

So it's a question when the checks will go out. For notices and documents that had to be mailed out of town, court at-

Only one more day remained for the unemployed in Mansfield and Richland county to mail their unemployed report cards to the postoffice as the nation's first official unemployed census neared an end

Unemployed persons who are able to work and who are seeking work, have been asked to fill out the cards and place them in the mail by tomorrow midnight. The card requires no stamp or envelope

In Mansfield and the adjoining rural routes, 16,000 of these cards have been distributed by postal employes. A large number have already been returned. Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said, but no effort is being made at the postoffice to count the number received. The cards are being forwarded to Washington.

Strikers Defy Union's Plea to Return to Jobs

Sit-Downers Protesting Lay-Off In Move Not Backed by Union.

BULLETIN

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Labor troubles in the plants of General Motors' Fisher body division increased today when the Lansing local of the United Automobile Workers union ordered a strike vote meeting for Saturday.

DETROIT — (UP) —Members of the U. A. W. Pontiac local early today revolted against the pleas of the union's international officers and voted in a mass meeting to continue a strike which has made 14,721 workers idle.

The vote was taken in defiance of a plea by Fred C. Piper, U. A. W. executive board member, to end the strike and resume production in plants of the Fisher Body corporation and the Pontiac Motor Car company

Seek Union Funds.

The strikers voted to carry on their "outlaw" demonstration by dipping into the union's strength strike fund. D. Z. Michell, Pontiac local president, said this action of the mass meeting was not valid because the strike was unauthorized.

The intra-union revolt followed by only a few hours a promise by Homer Martin, international president of the U. A. W., to reaffirm the union's opposition to "wildcat strikes as a preliminary to new negotiations with General Motors corporation.

Martin's new pledge followed charges by General Motors officials that the Pontiac strike was a "flagrant violation" of the union-corporation contract signed after the long sit-down strike in General Motors plants last winter.

Negotiations Collapse.

Negotiations for revision of last winter's contract were broken off last week-end after union members rejected one proposal and William S. Knudsen, General Motors president, demanded assurance that "wild cat" strikes would be banned and the union would punish members responsible for them.

"There has been no change whatsoever in our attitude or policies," Martin declared in a statement telephoned to Detroit from his mother's home in Illinois. "The U. A. W. is still opposed to unauthorized strikes."

How'd He Get to U. S.?

BOSTON —(UP)— Clerks handling the national unemployment census blinked today when they came upon a card signed "The Duke of Windsor."

The card stated the writer was "unemployed," had "no home" and was a "housing expert."

TRIO INDICTED

Ex-O. S. R. Inmates Named In Kidnap-Murder Charges.

Two paroled Mansfield Reformatory inmates were indicted along with a third ex-convict today for the kidnap-murder of Dr. James I. Seder, 79-year-old West Virginia dry leader.

The indictments were returned jointly by a special grand jury at Huntington, West Va.

John Travis, 25, and Orville Adkins, 25, who served auto theft sentences in the reformatory, were indicted along with Arnett A. Booth, 46, United Press dispatches from Huntington said.

Dr. Seder was held captive for 11 days in an abandoned coal mine. He died four days after he was released, from injuries and pneumonia which developed from his imprisonment.

Former Husband of Duchess Wed To Chum of Baltimore Belle.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. — (AP) — The Ernest A. Simpsons, who slipped quietly out of New York to be wed in an unostentatious ceremony, were honeymooning today.

Friends said they were headed for Vermont and would return to New York Dec. 10 and sail for London, where they will live.

Simpson, divorced husband of the Duchess of Windsor, took as his third bride yesterday afternoon Mrs Mary Kirk Raffray, a childhood chum of the Baltimore belle who married Britain's abdicated monarch. Edward VIII. Simpson is 40, his bride 41.

Observers See Styert As New Service-Safety Chief

Mayor-Elect Silent on Appointments but That Doesn't Keep Speculators Quiet—Herlihy, Rahm Mentioned.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

While Mayor-Elect Claude M. Hunter plays the usual political game of remaining silent about his appointments to his official family, Democratic circles are also playing the usual political game of speculating on just who will be named by Hunter.

There are six major posts to be filled, when the new mayor takes over the reins of city government on Jan. 1.

Back from a vacation which took him through the south and east, Hunter has said he hadn't anything to announce as yet, and that he wasn't even going to consider any of the numerous requests for jobs that have come to him until after Dec. 1.

Says He's In No Hurry.

"I'm in no hurry," he said, "I want to look the field over and make my selections with all due respect to the people who had the confidence in me that gave me the office." He said he had requested all job applicants to submit their applications and qualifications in writing.

Meanwhile, however, political observers were figuring out what seemed to be the most likely candidates for the major jobs.

There seemed to be a general agreement in some circles that the No. 1 job—that of service-safety director—would go to Tracy D. Styert, a former council president, and unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic mayor-

ALL CAPTURED

Last of Fugitive O'Connell Kidnapers Behind Bars.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — (U.P.) — Percy (Angel Face) Geary rejoined his pals today in a prison stronger than the one from which he led them in a spectacular escape Tuesday.

Geary, captured yesterday about 24 hours after police caught his companions, John Oley and Harold (Red) Crowley, was under heavy guard in the Syracuse courthouse jail pending transfer to the "escape proof" Albany county prison Oley and Crowley were sent there yesterday.

The three convicts, convicted of participating in the kidnaping of John J. O'Connell in Albany, N. Y., in 1933, escaped from the Onondaga county penitentiary at nearby Jamesville

They will be held in Albany pending the action of a special grand jury called to consider jail breaking indictments.

6 DIE IN BLAZE

Perish as Flames Destroy Home In Colorado.

FT. COLLINS, Col.—(U.P.)—Six persons were burned to death in their sleep early today when fire razed the home of Tomas Cebes, 68.

Those who died in addition to Cebes were his wife, Sarah, 54, their daughter, Mrs. Benny Ortiz, 38, and Mrs. Ortiz's three children, Carmel, 14, Sarah, 11, and Henry, 9.

Mrs. Knox, Active At 80, Lauded

Mansfield Native, Head of Big Firm, Honored on Anniversary.

At her home in Johnstown, N. Y., last night, a native of Mansfield stopped in her busy life long enough to celebrate her 80th birthday and to receive congratulations from President Roosevelt, national leaders and her employes.

She is Mrs Charles B. Knox, native daughter of Mansfield and a pioneer food manufacturer and philanthropist, who has carried on a business which she and her husband started many years ago, the Knox Gelatine company, and of which she is president and general manager.

Her late husband discovered the formula for gelatine when they were first married. Soon after the present Knox company was established in Johnstown, her husband died. That was in 1908, and since then his widow has carried on the business and developed it into one of the largest firms of its kind in the world.

From that simple formula and her home-tested recipes, grew a million-dollar business. Mrs. Knox, noted for her philanthropies, anticipated her birthday anniversary by giving $50,000 recently to several Johnstown charitable institutions.

In spite of her years she is at her desk daily, working as long as any of her employes. Her son, James, is vice president of the company.

Last night 90 employes gathered at her home for a dinner and to pay tribute to the woman the entire city honors and admires. They gave her a tall silver vase containing 80 roses. Messages were sent to her from President Roosevelt, Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, Senators Royal S. Copeland and Robert Wagner, President Harry MacCracken of Vassar college, and many other notables over the country.

Mrs. Knox was born in Mansfield Nov. 18, 1857. She was Miss Rose Markward, the daughter of David and Amanda Forman Markward. Her father was a druggist of this city and built a family home at the corner of Fourth and Mulberry streets.

She met her future husband while visiting relatives in New York state and they were married on Feb. 15, 1883.

She visited here last about three years ago and at that time entertained a number of old friends and former neighbors at Westbrook Country club. She was a member of First Congregational church, and still supplies women of the church with gelatine for their church suppers. Mr. and Mrs. J A Rigby, Marion avenue road met in her in New York City some time ago and said Mrs. Knox's interest in her home town was manifested in her many questions about old friends here.

The genial captain from London flashed through the mile and back again in "Thunderbolt," a 24-cylinder racing giant, for an average of 11.56 seconds.

Eyston's speed, the fastest man has ever traveled in an automobile, exceeded Sir Malcolm Campbell's record of 301.1292 miles per hour by a wide margin.

Mt. Gilead Man Suffers Skull Fracture Near City; More Snow, Colder Forecast.

A three-inch blanket of snow which made driving on streets and highways hazardous, was blamed today for the death of a Cleveland man in an accident near Medina and injuries to six persons in the Richland county area.

One of the victims, Bert Rogers, 67, of Mt. Gilead, suffered a skull fracture last night in an accident just west of Mansfield and was in a critical condition today at General hospital. Two others who figured in accidents in and near the city were less seriously hurt.

Returning From Mansfield.

James F. Aldrich, 43, vice president of the Cuyahoga Finance company, Cleveland, was killed instantly last night on route 42 southwest of Medina when his car skidded into another in which three Cuyahoga county deputy sheriffs were returning from Mansfield.

The deputies, all of whom suffered minor injuries, were James Lally, 31, driver; Patrick Lynch, 35, and Lawrence Beardsley, 33. They had taken five prisoners to the Mansfield reformatory.

Rogers, who was driving west on Park avenue west road near the Erie subway, was injured about 1:30 p. m. when his car skidded into one driven by George Mochoskay, 29, of 591 South Diamond street.

Car Spins on Ice.

Mochoskay's machine was knocked over onto a bank as he was turning around at a sideroad. He suffered bruises, while Vernard Kinstle, 28, of 246 East First street, his companion, was unhurt. The accident occurred, State Highway Patrolman O. A. Alexander said, when Rogers applied the brakes on his car, causing the machine to turn around three times.

Knocked down by a car driven by Daniel Gunn, of 223 Wayne street, George Scholler, 50, of 230 First avenue, was treated at General hospital last night for injuries to his head, hands and left leg. He was struck by the side of the car as he crossed East Sixth street near Diamond. Gunn told

'Unwritten Law' To Be Defense In Double Slaying

GLENDALE, Calif. — (AP) — His "chin up," Paul A. Wright, 38, airport president, prepared an unwritten law defense today for his trial on a double charge for shooting his wife and best friend.

"I'm keeping my chin up," he said. "I've got to beat this case for the sake of my little girl, Helen." She is three.

Wright withheld his "full story" at his preliminary hearing yesterday, when 80-year-old Police Judge Frank Lowe set his arraignment for Dec. 6 But part of his statement to police that he caught his wife, Evelyn, 28, "cheating" in the arms of John Kimmel, his business associate, was read.

"I was so perfectly astounded," his statement said. "They looked up, smiled and kissed again, then things went perfectly white hot. . . . All I could think of was to destroy that thing."

Kimmel, 32, and married, had accompanied him home, Wright told police, early the morning of Nov. 9 after a round of drinking. Wright said he went into a bedroom for a nap, later to awake and find Kimmel and Mrs. Wright embracing on the piano bench.

Will Rogers' Niece, Here for Circus, Recalls Stories About Famous Uncle

Tells Anecdote of Trip Her Father, Humorist, Made to Mexico.

By JANE WILLIAMS

Will Rogers wasn't the only Oklahoma Rogers to turn to the entertainment field for a career. When the Baku-Grotto circus opens at the Coliseum Monday night, one of the performers will be Julia Rogers, niece of the great and well-loved American humorist

"Jude," as her uncle called her, is the daughter of Dick Rogers, Will's brother, who died at his ranch near Prairie Grove, Ark., in 1934, a year before his famous brother was killed in an Alaskan airplane crash. Prairie Grove is about 60 miles from Will's ranch at Claremore, Okla.

Her father's name, "Jude" explains was James Cicero, but because he winced at the "Cicero," his family called him Dick. When they were boys, Will could always squelch his brother calling him by his fancy name.

"A lot of legends have grown up about Uncle Will," she said this morning as she was interviewed in her room at the Southern hotel, "and of course some of them, like all legends, have grown considerably with the re-telling. But the one I like best is one father used to tell. There was only 13 months difference in their ages and when they were about 18 years old, they decided to see the country—and get rich. They struck out for California, but they didn't find the 'gold in them thar hills' that Uncle Will

Christian Workers

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 21 is Acts 6:1-10; 1 Cor. 3:10-15; Gal. 6:6-10; 1 Tim. 6:11-21, especially 1 Cor. 3:10-15; Gal. 6:6-10, the Golden Text being Gal. 6:9, "Let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.")

Few men in their life time have accomplished more work than the apostle Paul accomplished in the thirty years between his conversion and his death, as preacher, teacher, traveler, organizer, and pastor of churches and writer of literature of abiding interest and value. He is a worker at whose feet we all may sit to learn how to become efficient Christian workers.

Distributing the Work.

Dwight L. Moody's policy was that "it is better to get ten men to work than to try to do ten men's work." And he assured his own immortality by enlisting other workers to carry on his work from generation to generation.

The apostolic church was not long in learning the necessity of distributing the church's work among others than the twelve apostles. There was work that laymen could do as well or better than the already over-burdened apostles: "Now in these days when the number of the disciples was multiplying . . . the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, "It is not fit that we should forsake the word of God, and serve tables. Look ye out therefore, brethren, from among you seven men of good report, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business, but we will continue steadfastly in prayer, and in the ministry of the word." Thus laymen came into their own in the priesthood of believers and made good in the work assigned them, for we read, "The word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied."

All Christian work begins with Christ, the Master-Worker of us all: "Other foundation can no man lay than that, which is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Starting with Christ and building into our own lives and the lives of others the things that are in accord with him and his teachings we are building with the unperishable materials Paul likens to "gold, silver, costly stones"; failing here our building is with "wood, hay, stubble," which will not stand the test to which all our work must be subjected.

The Workers' Support.

But Christian work and workers must be supported. By whom? By those who believe in and are benefited by the work, not by outsiders who have no sympathy for the work. "Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things." Not the merchants on Main street who can be cajoled into buying tickets to suppers and bazaars, but the people who want the preaching and teaching for themselves and their children, they should support the work and the workers. By their offerings they "sow unto the Spirit, and the Spirit reap everlasting life." So then, as we have opportunity, let us work that which is good toward all men, and especially toward them that are of the household of faith."

Advice to Workers.

Paul's advice to Christian workers is to keep themselves "without spot, without reproach until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ." "Follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness. Fight the good fight of the faith, lay hold on the life eternal." Those who thus bring life into accord with their profession can not fail to be "rich in good works"—the only riches that bring abiding satisfaction.

THEATER

THE OLD Hollywood hotel in the film city received a visit the other day from a woman who asked permission to visit suite 264. The management obliged but was reluctant to leave her alone in it until she told them that she was Jean Acker, the first wife of Rudolph Valentino and they registered there for their honeymoon years ago. She is a bit player in pictures now, getting a part occasionally through the kindness of friends, and at the present time is appearing in the Dick Powell picture "Hollywood Hotel." She was the girl who divorced Valentino because "he hampered her career." After their divorce he rose to unprecedented movie heights and her star rapidly descended.

Not True to Life.

In making "Alcatraz Island," Warner Brothers obviously have taken their inspiration from Al Capone, but have made the mistake of making the character appear sympathetic and persecuted. A powerful racketeer cleverly escapes the toils of the law at every turn until Uncle Sam gets him for income tax evasion. And then he is sent to Leavenworth and later transferred to the Pacific-washed fortress prison of Alcatraz, where he is hounded by former enemies. Ann Sheridan and Mary Maguire and a group of well known movie "gangsters" make up the cast which is headed by John Litel as the big shot gangster. It opens at the Madison today for two days.

Rocky But Tuneful.

In "The Life of The Party," Gene Raymond and Harriet Hilliard have a romance that follows a rocky, but tuneful path, including a make believe honeymoon, six new songs and three spectacular dances. There is a merry mix-up when Miss Hilliard's mother, Helen Broderick, wants her to marry Joe Penner who has money and no brains, and Harriet tells her she is already married to Gene Raymond who has brains but no money. Victor Moore doesn't help to straighten things out any, and Parkyakarkus as a hotel detective keeps an eye on the "honeymooners." The musical romance is the Ohio theater attraction through Saturday.

Poses as Rustler.

Tom Tyler deals with cattle rustlers in summary fashion in his latest picture, "Cheyenne Rides Again," opening at the Majestic today. Known along the border as Cheyenne Tommy, he poses as an associate of the rustlers until he gains the evidence he needs to prosecute them and then he disappears, only to turn up in some other section of the state to do the same thing. As a member of the Cattlemen's Protective association, he works as an under cover man in rustler's posses. His assistant is Lucille Brown and the picture ends with their romance. "It Happened In Hollywood," with Richard Dix and Fay Wray is the second feature.

Sings New Numbers.

Judith Allen, who has gained considerable publicity recently as the divorce-seeking wife of the former prize fighter, Jack Doyle, is playing in Western films, and is currently with Gene Autry in "Git Along Little Dogies," at the Ritz. Miss Allen is one of the prettiest feminine players in Westerns. The story deals with the intrigue around the digging of an oil well in the cattle country, provides opportunity for the singing cowboy to put across several new numbers. Along with this outdoor story the Ritz offers comedy of the Wheeler-Woolsey brand in "On Again Off Again."

THEATER

THE OLD Hollywood hotel in the film city received a visit the other day from a woman who asked permission to visit suite 264. The management obliged but was reluctant to leave her alone in it until she told them that she was Jean Acker, the first wife of Rudolph Valentino and they registered there for their honeymoon years ago. She is a bit player in pictures now, getting a part occasionally through the kindness of friends, and at the present time is appearing in the Dick Powell picture "Hollywood Hotel." She was the girl who divorced Valentino because "he hampered her career." After their divorce he rose to unprecedented movie heights and her star rapidly descended.

Not True to Life.

In making "Alcatraz Island," Warner Brothers obviously have taken their inspiration from Al Capone, but have made the mistake of making the character appear sympathetic and persecuted. A powerful racketeer cleverly escapes the toils of the law at every turn until Uncle Sam gets him for income tax evasion. And then he is sent to Leavenworth and later transferred to the Pacific-washed fortress prison of Alcatraz, where he is hounded by former enemies. Ann Sheridan and Mary Maguire and a group of well known movie "gangsters" make up the cast which is headed by John Litel as the big shot gangster. It opens at the Madison today for two days.

Rocky But Tuneful.

In "The Life of The Party," Gene Raymond and Harriet Hilliard have a romance that follows a rocky, but tuneful path, including a make believe honeymoon, six new songs and three spectacular dances. There is a merry mix-up when Miss Hilliard's mother, Helen Broderick, wants her to marry Joe Penner who has money and no brains, and Harriet tells her she is already married to Gene Raymond who has brains but no money. Victor Moore doesn't help to straighten things out any, and Parkyakarkus as a hotel detective keeps an eye on the "honeymooners." The musical romance is the Ohio theater attraction through Saturday.

Poses as Rustler.

Tom Tyler deals with cattle rustlers in summary fashion in his latest picture, "Cheyenne Rides Again," opening at the Majestic today. Known along the border as Cheyenne Tommy, he poses as an associate of the rustlers until he gains the evidence he needs to prosecute them and then he disappears, only to turn up in some other section of the state to do the same thing. As a member of the Cattlemen's Protective association, he works as an under cover man in rustler's posses. His assistant is Lucille Brown and the picture ends with their romance. "It Happened In Hollywood," with Richard Dix and Fay Wray is the second feature.

Sings New Numbers.

Judith Allen, who has gained considerable publicity recently as the divorce-seeking wife of the former prize fighter, Jack Doyle, is playing in Western films, and is currently with Gene Autry in "Git Along Little Dogies," at the Ritz. LEADING ISSUES SUFFER LOSSES IN DULL MARKET

Sentiment Dimmed by Doubts Congress Would Be Able to Help Business.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Further selling difficulties were encountered by leading stocks in today's market and many suffered losses running to 2 or more points.

Dimming sentiment were fresh doubts congress would be able to provide immediate relief for sagging business. Labor difficulties continued to confront automobile makers and a new "sit-down" move at Goodyear's Akron plants was a depressing influence. Bonds and commodities were inclined to back away.

Market analysis found little to cheer about in the week-end survey of Dun & Bradstreet which disclosed a definite levelling off of trade gains over a year ago.

While retail sales for the country as a whole were 1 to 3 per cent above the 1936 week, the showing was attributed largely to clearances and marked down offerings in addition to the start of Christmas promotions.

A sharp recession in the total of commercial lending by federal reserve banks was offset to some extent by announcement the system, as a means of further expanding credit, had stepped up its open-market purchases of federal securities more than $18,000,000 for the week.

RULES AGAINST NEW COAL ACT

Ohio Judge Holds Guffey Law Unconstitutional in Decision.

LOGAN, O — (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Phil A. Henderson recorded today an opinion against constitutionality of the 1935 Guffey coal act.

He upheld the Starr-Jackson Mining company's demurrer to a suit brought by the Bituminous Coal Producers' board for district number three.

Judge Henderson said that since the United States supreme court had held unconstitutional a section of the Guffey act assessing a penalty for failure to sign an agreement, any agreement signed to avoid such a penalty also must be invalid.

The board contended that the supreme court did not rule on the provision which assessed producers on a tonnage basis for administration of the act.

RICH RECLUSE FIGHTS DEATH

Forced To Enter Hospital as Police Find Him Ill.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Forced to a hospital by police for treatment for pneumonia, William P. Devou, 83, millionaire recluse, was reported "improved" today by his physician, Dr. J. T. Clear.

Police broke into Devou's squalid office-home Wednesday and took him to a hospital after acquaintances notified them the man had not been seen since the day before.

He was reported a year or so ago to have discarded a ledger showing that tenants owed him $500,000 in back rent, and for years he had been known here for contributions to charity.

BRITISH ENVOY VISITS HITLER

Peace Outlook at Stake in Conference at Berlin.

BERLIN —(U.P.)— Viscount Halifax, British cabinet minister, and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler talked today of the possibilities of consolidating peace, a peace which Europe has sought vainly during the 19 years since the World war, to make secure.

It was the climax of a "private" visit to Germany—actually one approved by the British government—whose result, statesmen knew, might be of tremendous importance.

It promised to show either that there was a chance of friendly co-operation between Great Britain and Germany, and of consolidating European peace, or that the ever sharper, and increasingly dangerous, division of European nations into Fascist-Nazi and Democratic blocs must continue.

CAREK FLOWER SHOW SATURDAY

Florists Will Observe Fifth Anniversary In Mansfield With Annual Display.

Carek Florist, Inc., in the Farmers Bank building, will stage a flower show Saturday in celebration of their fifth anniversary in Mansfield.

The show will feature a variety of cut flowers and floral displays. With "mums" on hand, many of the displays will be built around these flowers.

As a novel part of the show, Careks are showing arrangements of flowers for different occasions. A Thanksgiving piece and the proper floral decorations for a Christmas dinner will be shown.

Flowers suitable for wedding anniversaries from the first to the golden will be displayed, as well as corsages for various occasions.

Not all of the flowers have been grown in the Carek greenhouses. Tropical flowers, including a new type called the Bird of Paradise, which made its debut in civilized countries last year, will be included in the displays.

ROGERS' NIECE TALKS OF UNCLE

Tells Anecdote of Trip Her Father and Humorist Made to Mexico.

found years afterward in the movies.

"As a matter of fact, they had to help feed the hogs on a ranch in return for their food at one stage in their adventure. Finally they decided to seek their fortunes in Mexico, and they bummed their way down to Mexico City. There luck was a little better, and they did make some money. But what do you suppose they did with it? They bought two Mexican ponies, some elaborate saddles, chaps and spurs and big sombrero hats, and set out for home to show off before the home folks. They rode their horses over hundreds of miles of rough trails and roads between Mexico City and Claremore, with all their finery, but they landed home broke and pretty well bedraggled."

She remembers with a great deal of affection Will Rogers' gentleness for the poor. When he and Dick were young men, she recalls, he'd say—with the well known Rogers wistfulness "When I get rich, I'm a-goin' to help these pore folks."

And he was one of the few men who kept his word. The comedian was noted for his extensive personal charities, and his large gifts to Red Cross and other welfare organizations. He was always ready to "he'p pore folks" wherever he found them.

He was a "natural born kidder," according to his neice, and from the time he was a youngster, his pointed comments and witticisms delighted his home town folks and laid the foundation for the type of humor which in after years made him the star of the Ziegfeld Follies, a great movie star and writer of a widely read newspaper column. His skill with the lariat won him a place in vaudeville, but his comments on current events and persons brought him fame.

Julia Rogers has eyes and facial contours that remind one of the late comedian. She has been with circuses for 17 years and recently has appeared on the Robert Ripley radio programs with her dual singing voice. She has a natural masculine baritone and a woman's soprano voice. She developed the former at the University of Arkansas when she substituted in a male quartet, and the soprano is the result of considerable training after her father decided that baritone was no way for a woman to sing. She had disappointed him once by not becoming a "fiddle player," so she abandoned the low, deep tones and studiously tried to cultivate a high soprano. Now she can do both, and with ease. That's her act in the Great Eastern Circus opening a week's stand here Monday, under Grotto sponsorship.

She has appeared in Mansfield a number of times with circuses, but has steadfastly refused to trade on the name of her famous uncle, one of the best loved Americans of all time.

JEROMESVILLE—The senior class of Jeromesville high school will present the play "The Valley of Ghosts" at 8 p. m. Friday in the school auditorium.

GANGES — A Thanksgiving service will be held at the Ganges church at 8 p. m. Sunday. The program will include a pageant, "Give Unto The Lord" by a cast of 18 women of the church.

CAN YOU DONATE COURT A STAMP?

taches have borrowed postage from time to time from the mayor's office, and from the water department. On occasion, clerks have dug down in their own pockets for the money to buy stamps.

Today, a little glass jar, labeled "stamp fund," graced the counter of the court office and visitors were asked to drop a few pennies in it, to help meet the emergency.

It's a pretty bad situation, court attaches agreed. They've been a bit fearful about the thing for some time.

When it was found several weeks ago that the stamp supply was running low, the court, to save money, ran an advertisement announcing that the checks were ready, and could be called for. Deputies said today that about 50 per cent of the checks had been called for, but that most of the rest of the checks on hand are addressed to out-of-town persons. There are still more than a hundred checks in the court safe.

Tuesday's special meeting of council, Allen K. Ports, clerk of the court, submitted the request for appropriation of $110 to carry the court through until the first of the year.

Council members, tabling the request until the regular December meeting, asked City Auditor Paul Kelley to check balances of various funds within the general fund to see if sufficient funds could be found for a transfer.

Court records show that while there has been a general increase in the amount of business handled by the court in the past year, the civil branch has shown an increase of more than 50 per cent over its 1936 business. Trusteeships alone, the records showed, have increased nearly 200 per cent during the past ten months. Where there were only 30 such recorded from 1933 to 1936, 44 were shown entered on the books this year.

Kelley's records show that municipal court was allocated $9,830 at the beginning of 1937 and had received no additional funds.

BUSINESS ASKS LEVY REPEAL

Aldrich, N. Y. Banker, Places Blame For Slump on New Deal Policies.

to relief for small corporations and small businesses.

"If this suggestion should be followed," he said, "The attempt to encourage business would be unsuccessful. The practical question is whether congress wishes to get results.

"Both small business and big businesses are hampered by existing legislation . . . big business is in no way distinguishable from small business in terms of employment and the creation of prosperity. After all, big business represents only the sum total of millions of wage earners and stockholders."

Aldrich said he agreed with the president that the fundamental situation today could not be compared to 1929; that the banking system was not overly extended, interest rates were low and speculation did not overhang the markets.

"What, then," he asked, "Is the cause of the business recession?

"I believe that the primary cause is to be found in important governmental policies, some of which already bear heavily on business and others of which undermine confidence in the future on the part of the investing public and the business community. Many governmental policies, moreover, create uncertainty, and uncertainty is the one thing above all others it is most difficult for business to cope with."

STRIKERS DEFY UNION'S PLEAS

Auto Workers Revolt, Force Idleness of 14,000 In Detroit Plants.

Goodyear local of the United Rubber Workers of America, said the strike started after the fourth shift entered the No. 1 plant at midnight and was called without union authorization.

Describing the sit-down as a "spontaneous outburst of the uneasiness which has been present in the minds of Goodyear employes for many weeks," House said the action resulted when last minute efforts to induce C. C. Slusser, Goodyear vice president, to postpone the layoffs had failed and when it was found that seniority rights would not be observed in the company's retrenchment program.

"Union officers have been trying for many weeks to get a definite agreement on layoffs and a just seniority program through amicable discussion but despite every effort we have made for such agreement this question has not been settled," House said.

The union executive said he had been informed that the layoffs instead of being on a factory-seniority basis would be on departmental or division basis with few transfers.

EYES FAR EAST

Soviet Pares Aid to Spain Because of Sino-Jap War.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Russia has intimated to the Spanish Loyalist government a desire to liquidate as soon as possible its participation in the Spanish war because of "growing preoccupation" in the Far East, a reliable source said today.

The Soviet has informed the Loyalists that it had found it necessary to keep all pilots, fighting planes and war materials in reserve for Russia's own needs.

Some observers believed the new attitude of the Soviet explained the change of front by Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador, at recent session of the non-intervention committee. They said it would clarify the readiness of Russia to withdraw opposition on the question of granting belligerent rights to both sides in the Spanish conflict.

FARM HARVEST TO AGGREGATE ALL TIME HIGH

Economists Believe Total Production May Never Be Equalled Again.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The United States this year will approximate the all-time peak of farm productivity, economists of the department of agriculture believe.

None of the major crops established an all-time record this year, but taken in the aggregate production was estimated at only 6 per cent below the record year of 1920. Economists believe it may never again be equalled.

Estimated cotton production of 17,573,000 bales is the second largest on record and within 400,000 bales of the peak crop of 1926. Production of 249 pounds per acre was by far the largest on record.

Corn production, estimated at 2,561,000,000 bushels, is one of the largest on record: The yield per acre approximates the all-time high. The wheat crop of 886,895,000 bushels is the seventh largest ever produced. Oats production was about average.

Minor Crops Flourish.

Bumper crops were produced in rye, rice, peanuts, apples, peaches, grapes, pecans, potatoes, sugar beets and other crops which, while relatively minor, add millions of dollars to farm income.

The trend in agricultural production was rapidly upward until 1926 and was stationary from 1926 to 1931. It was notably downward from 1931 until this year.

The decline is attributed by Dr. O. E. Baker, department economist, to drouth, low prices for farm products, reduced production under Agricultural Adjustment programs, depletion of soil fertility, and decline in rural wealth.

This year's extraordinary production is attributed to abnormally favorable weather, increased production per acre resulting from improved farming practices and high prices induced by low reserve stocks of most farm products.

American agriculture is shifting from "mass production" methods to more intensive cultivation. Production per farm worker had declined from 1926 until 1937. Production is being more nearly adjusted to demand than ever before.

SENIORS STAGE PLAY ON LIFE IN COLLEGE TOWN

Comedy, 'Lady of Letters,' to Be Given Tuesday Night at High School.

"Lady of Letters," a three-act comedy of life in a small college town, will be presented Tuesday night in the Senior high school auditorium by the January graduating class of the school.

Taking part in the production are 12 members of the class, Thelma Dickson, Richard Moore, Myrta Levering, Margaret Sams, George Biddle, Martha Davey, Doris Betz, Mary Spiker, Robert Murphy, Richard Donnan, Richard Coe and Kathleen Gehl.

The play concerns the naive wife of a professor in a small college town, who feels shut out from society in the town. In trying to occupy her time, she buys a play manuscript from an unsuccessful author, signs her name to it and sends it to a publisher, only to find to her surprise that the book is published and becomes a best seller.

Then Real Author Appears.

She gains national prominence for herself and the school, and later goes through many trying days, when the real author claims the rights to the successful novel. After the unexpected experience, she decides to settle down again to the daily routine of her home and the small town.

The play is under the direction of E. L. Heasley, dramatic instructor at the school. Members of the production staff are Kathryn Huber and Fred Lewis, busines managers; Jack Watts, advertising manager; Margaret Loesch, prompter, Margaret Rizer, Jack Brandt, Madeline Karkalik, Earle Deems and Jean Oswalt, members of the property committee.

BREWERS DRINK 'POP'

CHAMBERSBURG, Ja.—(U.P.)—"Soda pop" was the only beverage served at the Franklin county retail beer dealers' picnic. The picnic was held on a Sunday, and an agent of the liquor control board warned the retailers at the last minute that they would endanger their licenses if beer was served.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

One of the new fall books for children, is Joseph Leeming's "Fun With Boxes." It is a practical and interesting handicraft book for both boys and girls. All of the articles are to be made out of materials found in every person's house. Such things as wooden and cardboard boxes, and even empty pill boxes have their use, and Mr. Leeming shows how to make furniture, toys and games and many attractive and useful presents for Christmas. The diagrams are clear and simple, so for children who like to use tools and to make things, this is an ideal book.

PAYS IN PORK

Husband Must Give Ex-Wife Hog or Quarter of Beef.

LOGAN—(AP)—One of the most unusual court orders ever issued in Hocking county confronted Oscar Blum following his divorce from May Blum.

Common Pleas Judge Phil A. Henderson directed the defendant to contribute to the support of five minor children, and in addition ordered that he "deliver to the plaintiff during the fall and winter season, a dressed hog or a quarter of beef" for her maintenance.

2 NOVELS TAKE UP DIVORCE AND ITS PROBLEMS

Authors Reveal Understanding of Human Joys, Sorrows In Library's New Volumes.

Another short novel by McKinley Kantor, author of "Long Remember" and "Bugle Ann," will be found this week in the list of new fiction at the Public library. It is "The Romance of Rosy Ridge" and has the charm and the pathos of the hill country people of Missouri. When Comb-Hummin Henry courts Lissy Ann, her father's attitude shows the strong feeling of Confederates against Yankees after the Civil war. The simple, homely ways of these characters make as strong an appeal to the reader as did those in "The Voice of Bugle Ann."

When a young woman divorces her husband because of his drunkeness and attempts to re-establish herself with her child as a member of the community she faces many social and emotional problems of adjustment. "Call It Freedom" by Marian Sims suggests that in the case of Martha Freer and her small son Jimmie that a divorce is not a passport to unalloyed happiness but a challenge to a desperate battle.

Sigred Undset's "The Faithful Wife" deals with another problem of marriage and divorce. After Nathalie and Sigurd have been happily married for 16 years, each enjoying a career, she learns of his infatuation for a young girl. Divorcing him that he may marry the mother of his child. Thali learns that she still loves Sigurd. The author's treatment of this theme shows again her deep understanding of human joys and sorrows.

Other New Fiction.

The "Old London" series by Benson also is on this week's fiction list and includes "Janet," "Friend of The Rich," "Portrait of An English Nobleman" and "The Unwanted." Other novels are "The Anointed" by Davis; "The Pattern," Eberhart; "I Asked No Other Thing," Jarrett; and "Rumbin Galleries" by Booth Tarkington.

"Little Golden America," by Ilya Ilf and Eugene Petrov has the subtitle: Two Famous Soviet Humorists Survey These United States. Traveling across the continent and back these two Russions observed many things which we Americans are prone to overlook or ignore; and they were disturbed because our people as a nation have no common goal. This is a book of candid and biting comments on American ways and civilization.

"Robert Browning and Julia Wedgewood: A Broken Friendship as Revealed By Their Letters," is a new volume, edited by Richard Curle, which deals with the great poet. It contains the correspondence which passed between Browning and Miss Wedgewood during the years 1863-1870. Here we find evidence of a deep friendship between this young Victorian authoress and the poet.

In the "Corridor of Time" series by Peake and Fleur, there are these subjects: "The Steppe and The Sown;" "Way of The Sea;" Horse and The Sword;" "Merchant Venturers in Bronze" and "Law and The Prophets."

Other non-fiction this week is: "American Marriage and Family Relationships" by Groves and Ogburn; "History of Magic and Experimental Science," 2 vols. by Thorndike; "Ten Million Americans Have It," by Becker; "Plant Doctor," by Westcott; "Elements of Lettering" by Goudy; "Outlook for Literature," by Thorndike; "Letter to Robert Frost," by Hillyer; "One More Manhattan," by McGinley; "Life in a Haitian Valley," by Herskovits; "Saga of American Society," by Wecter; "Dangerous Sea," by Slocombe and "Notes as Vice-President, 1928-1929" by Dawes.

BERLIN CITY OF BICYCLES

BERLIN — (U.P.) — A total of more than 175,000 cyclists pass through Berlin's streets every day, according to details of a traffic census taken over a period of 12 months. On Sundays the number swells to between 110,000 and 112,000.

A girl in Naples, Italy, yawned so hard that she dislocated her jaw and an operation was necessary to restore it to its normal position.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1937.

The unsuspicious turkeys are probably wondering why they are being so well fed this week.

The root of evil in our capitalist system is the desire for too much profit, which makes scarcity instead of plenty.

It appears that Brazil's new dictator is running true to form by refusing to "look pleasant" for photographers.

Three Children Struck By Cars.

BETTER "luck" than can be depended upon may be credited with the fact that none of the three Mansfield boys struck by automobiles during the afternoon and evening of one day this week, was killed.

Such occurrences point clearly to the need for persistent effort to impress children with dangers involved in crossing streets.

Kansas City, with a population around 400,000, has attracted nation-wide attention by going through thirteen months with a record of not one child being killed in traffic in that city.

Other cities have asked Kansas City for the formula. Strict enforcement of traffic regulations appears to be the starting point—and motorists govern themselves accordingly.

The idea of safety is kept constantly before school children. The mail man takes to each child safety devices from the Safety council. School teachers give lessons provided by the council. Loud speakers from two "voice of safety" cars sound warnings. Forty thousand Kansas City children belong to the Junior Safety council, a self-governing body of pupils in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

What has been done in Kansas City can be done in other cities—but it cannot be done without planning and work.

Where One's Word Must Be Good.

ONE FEATURE of the New York stock exchange which might well be emulated by many other organizations is the close scrutiny to which applicants for membership are subjected before being accepted.

The process by which a seat on the exchange is secured was explained to a Mansfield audience this week by Jason Westerfield, of New York, a representative of the exchange.

With membership definitely limited, a seat on the exchange becomes available only when some member wishes to retire. Price is a matter of agreement between seller and prospective buyer, but any applicant must be acceptable to the board of governors, from the standpoint of assured business integrity, and the entire business record of each applicant is thoroughly investigated before action is taken.

This is made necessary from the fact that transactions on the stock exchange are carried through "by word of mouth," or sometimes by a mere nod, and the most implicit confidence must be felt in the ability and willingness of every member to fulfill all agreements.

Here is a case in which, literally, a man's word must be "as good as his bond"—which accounts for the need of extreme care in admitting only those who can be depended upon under all conditions.

It would be a fine thing if admission into other organizations—and professions—could be as carefully guarded.

South American Fascism.

APPARENT scrapping of representative government and American democracy in Brazil raises some interesting questions.

Getulio Vargas, who has been president of Brazil under a constitution modeled on our own, seems to have followed the fashion of Italy, Germany and Japan. Administrative, legislative and even judicial power are all in his hands. His cabinet has resigned, his congress has been dissolved.

He is forming a new cabinet and creating a government of four branches — executive, legislative, economic and judicial, "selected by indirect vote and under presidential direction." He is to serve for six years, with the right then to name one of two candidates to succeed him. He has announced a "new constitution" embodying these changes. There is supposed to be an election to validate the one-man revolution, subject to his discretion. All state and municipal authority is assumed by him.

This is the longest step in absolute government yet taken in this hemisphere. There have been strong, individualist governments, notably in Mexico and Venezuela, but they have at least pretended to follow republican constitutional forms.

Back-Seat Control.

A NEW wrinkle in back-seat driving, and a good one, is reported from Ardmore, Pa. As a car drove past a patrolman, a woman shouted from the rear seat: "Officer, arrest this man! He's too drunk to drive." The policeman stopped the car, found that it was even as the passenger had said, and took the driver to the police station. He was her husband.

It is better, of course, to stop one's husband, or anyone else, from driving before he starts, when he is intoxicated. It would save many tragedies if people in general would refuse to ride in cars with a driver who has been drinking, no matter who he is, and would take any necessary steps to get such a driver away from the wheel when his condition is discovered. It is as sensible and legitimate as preventing a potential murder. In fact, it may be doing that very thing.

Two Purposes of Saving.

ANY sound investment and savings program must serve two purposes:

First, it must provide financial protection for the wage earner's dependents, preferably in a form that will assure a monthly income for a stated length of time, or life.

Second, it must provide for the wage earner's old age, in the event that he lives beyond productive years. Mathematically, the chances that a man now aged thirty-five and in good health will live to the age of sixty-five are 65 out of 100.

One-sided future planning, which minimizes or eliminates either of these possibilities, may turn out to be tragic. Millions of foresighted Americans have assured the completion of a two-sided investment plan through life insurance.

HUDDLE!

Magic Voice Missing In Message To Congress

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt seems to me to have made a great mistake in not delivering, in person, his message to congress at the opening of the lawmakers' current extra session.

It was read to the legislators by Clerk A. E. Chaffee of the house of representatives.

Reading Clerk Chaffee is a competent elocutionist. He did a good job in its way. He enunciated clearly, was duly respectful to all punctuation marks, but it was obvious that all he was doing was to "follow copy." There was not any inspiration in his performance.

PERSONALITY LACKING.

After the ceremony was over the first person I asked, "What did you think of it?" was an ardent New Dealer, a prominent member of the "little cabinet" —that is to say, a first assistant secretary.

"The words were all right," he answered, in a disappointed tone, "but the presidential voice was lacking."

That was it. Congress (and, I believe, the whole country, over the radio) had been waiting breathlessly to be spell-bound by that message. As delivered by Reading Clerk Chaffee, it fell as an anti-climax And it did not go out over the radio.

NON-APPEARANCE PUZZLE.

I have talked with few New Dealers (let alone "antis") who deny that the message dealt in much but generalities. Broadly speaking, it was sound. Even the "antis" admit that. But did it recommend anything definite? The New Dealers themselves do not contend that it did so.

If "F. D" had done his own orating I have no doubt that his remarks would have been accepted, except by cavillers, as highly constructive.

Not, however, as expressed at second hand by Reading Clerk Chaffee.

Why the president did not appear in person puzzles me — and many other folk. Possibly he underestimates the potency of his individual personality. Ordinarily one hardly would suppose so: he always has appeared to be pretty confident of himself. Still, it is difficult to guess otherwise. Or why did he make such an error of judgment at so critical a juncture?

STRADDLES.

Maybe, at that, he calculated his policy.

He has been known as pretty ultra-illberal — so much so that business is uneasy and we have had a recession.

Some concessions to business had to be made.

And yet, if concessions were made to business, there was the risk that labor and agriculture would be antagonized.

The presidential message had to straddle.

It was easier for the White House to straddle, by the way of Reading Clerk Chaffee, than to straddle directly.

A speech by a leader like Franklin D. Roosevelt needs to be a "ringing speech," but it doesn't have to ring so stridently through the medium of a house of representatives reading clerk.

BUT A MASTERLY STRADDLE.

Anyway, the message has been somewhat reassuring to business.

At the same time, labor and agriculture have nothing to complain about.

It was a masterly straddle.

And I do not mean to charge that a straddle is bad statesmanship just now. If it turns an economic decline into an improvement, it is beneficent.

The fact remains that that message was a straddle.

If a president has to straddle, it is more dignified for him to do it by way of the reading clerk of the house of representatives than for him to do it in person.

STRADDLING NECESSARY.

I presume it is disrespectful to refer to the president as straddling.

Nevertheless, it is necessary.

He has interests that, for the welfare of all concerned, he HAS to straddle.

I cannot talk of them all in one story. Let me have an additional article.

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON—

Opportunity Is a State of Mind.

I USED to think of opportunity as something outside one's self—

A lucky break. A special chance. Something that came knocking at the door—

And I waited for it to come knocking at mine. But it didn't come. Or, if there was a knock, it was some hobo whim that brought me nothing, took me nowhere.

Day after drab day passed. Where was my One Big Moment, that every human is promised?

I waited . . . watched. Grew bitter waiting. Why didn't Lady Luck come?

All around me, others were making good fast—doing things with their lives. Evidently their chance had come. Why hadn't mine come to me? Why didn't someone offer me a wonderful job? Invite me on a thrilling adventure? Give me the breaks?

They didn't. And I didn't know why.

Then gradually, through sheer necessity, I began to figure things out. Began to see that my expectations had been wrong from the beginning—

I had been thinking of Opportunity as an outside thing. Something that came to you. But Opportunity wasn't an outside arrangement—

IT WAS AN INSIDE ATTITUDE.

Opportunity didn't come from someone else . . . didn't just happen.

OPPORTUNITY WASN'T LUCK . . . IT WAS A STATE OF MIND—

An opening of your own heart—

A widening of your own imagination—

A quickening of your own will.

The people whom I saw having luck were actually making that luck, themselves, by their own attitude. They weren't just waiting—they were willing. They were opening themselves to luck.

AND IF YOU HAVE AN ATTITUDE LIKE THAT, ANYTHING IS LUCK THAT COMES YOUR WAY.

That doesn't mean that you always get what you expect or want . . . or that you always recognize your chances when you find them. But it does mean that you are set on a winning streak.

FOR IF YOUR HEART IS OPEN AND YOUR MIND IS AWAKE AND YOUR WILL IS ALL SET TO GO, YOU CAN TURN ANYTHING TO ACCOUNT . . . FIND PROFIT OR PLEASURE OR ADVENTURE ANY WAY YOU TURN.

I didn't learn all this quickly or easily. I wasn't born lucky. I didn't get off to a happy start. And besides, I was naturally all kinds of an idiot. There were years when I seemed hell bent for misery . . . when all the breaks were bad ones.

But I wanted luck. I studied lucky people. I tried to see how they get that way. I was envious at first . . . bitter and jealous. I thought such people must be Teacher's Pets. But I couldn't hang on to such a nutty notion as that. It just didn't fit the facts.

They weren't Teacher's Pets. They didn't have rare and unusual chances But they were ready, inside themselves, for luck. They were willing to pay the price of luck—which is often mighty steep. They were willing to make changes and adjustments, and accept compromises . . . willing to experiment and fail and be laughed at . . . willing to be lonely and frightened.

You can't lick people like that. You can't take their luck from them . . . nor keep their Opportunity from them. They carry their Opportunity right with them . . . inside them . . . all set.

Just as you can carry yours . . . STARTING NOW!

Mayors Forcing Congress to Face Facts.

RELIEF! TWO BILLION DOLLARS will not be enough! That is the story—for congress.

The most important event in Washington was not the convening of congress in a special session. It was the convening of the United States Conference of Mayors. The mayors spoke no platitudes; they spoke the bitter truth.

And the bitter truth means two billion dollars' relief for nine or eleven or thirteen million jobless. And the bitter truth means that if excess profits' taxes or any other kind of taxes are reduced, income taxes will have to be levied on thousands and thousands of wage earners themselves.

That is the bitter truth neither an administration nor a congress, no matter what political hue, desides to face. And that is a bitter truth that neither Wall Street nor business will face voluntarily.

But if it isn't faced ———?

A MAYOR SPEAKS

"To fail to strive for recovery is treason to democracy, but to fail to so conduct our recovery program as to care for our needy men, women and children in the meantime is treason to humanity."

That was not spoken on the floor of congress—or in some radical meeting. That was spoken at the mayors' conference by a Republican, Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland. (Incidentally, Mayor Burton probably will be Ohio's favorite son for the Republican nomination for president.)

Mayor Burton spoke with great feeling for, as he said, more than 100,000 persons in Cleveland (one-twelfth of the population) require relief. Other mayors spoke similarly.

"Work relief should be continued on a federal basis," Mayor Burton asserted. "This should include the employment on federal projects of all employable relief cases.

"While there might be more decentralization of administration there certainly should be no decentralization of the source of funds for such work relief until adequate new sources are clearly established . . .

"If we cut off governmental relief to bona fide cases, we will find in Cleveland 100,000 people compelled to choose between starvation on the one hand or lawless search for food on the other.

"To present such a choice is not to promote law and order; it is to foment anarchy."

"SAME OLD CIRCLE"

But it was Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York, president of the conference, who hit the nail on the head with:

"Not until the question of labor is definitely and satisfactorily settled can we hope to arrive at a point where we can estimate on a minimum permanent relief requirement. We are still struggling along, seemingly blindly, with the same old vicious circle—lack of purchasing power, reduced production; reduced production, reduced employment; increased relief.

"This conference has repeatedly expressed itself as to the necessity of creating a greater spread of employment and putting that vicious circle into reverse. This, in turn, is translated into increased purchasing power, increased production, increased employment, and decreased relief.

"It has now been accepted, I hope, by all, that the rural sections of our country and the cities are in the same boat . . ."

Another presidential possibility of the Republicans speaking . . . and gaining cheers.

But Mayor La Guardia advocated something that many states dislike, viz., a uniform system of taxation for states, compelled by the federal government. The mayor would like to see state income taxes in every state—and in equal proportion to every other state.

INDUSTRY'S PART

Mayor La Guardia, as perhaps the outstanding presidential possibility, disregarded the shouts of Republicans in congress for tax reductions on corporations and greater "freedom" for Wall Street.

For the mayor continued, in quite an unorthodox manner for a Republican:

"In establishing the so-called spread by a shorter working day and a shorter working week, it is necessary to give industry fair consideration. But industry should be willing to co-operate in this legislation (wages-hours), instead of opposing and fighting it blindly.

"Eventually it will result in reduced taxes by reason of reduced appropriations for relief. It might take some time to reach this point."

NEW SUGGESTION

In the meantime, Mayor La Guardia puts forth this proposal:

"In the meantime I suggest a recommendation to congress to consider the advisability of providing, during the initial and adjustment period, some tax credit to industry that will adjust itself to shorter hours and a shorter week, thereby increasing the number of employes. This may well be worked out on the basis of percentage of employment increase.

"We hear a great deal these days about the troubles of industry. But, unless we establish purchasing power in this country, industry will have no market. It will be conceded that what business in this country requires is stability. On the other hand, what labor requires is security. And if we have security for one we can have stability for the other . . .

"We hear a great deal now about so-called hard-headed financiers. The trouble is that they are not hard-headed financiers . . . They knew more about the design of a stock certificate than they knew about sound finances, which caused most of our troubles.

"I welcome the suggestions of hard-headed financiers, but to date I have not heard or seen any constructive or helpful suggestions. If there ever was a time when this country required co-operation among all of its people in the face of a great emergency, it is this very moment."

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Facts Behind Pay Envelope.

By HARLEY L. LUTZ,
Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University.

One of the most important, but at the same time the most difficult of all problems for the individual and for society is how to improve the income status of the lowest income groups.

Everyone will at once admit the desirability of doing this, but nearly everyone has a different view as to the best way of accomplishing it.

A large section of opinion leans toward government action, applied through severe taxation of large incomes and large estates, or through wage and hour legislation,, or in some other way, such as bounties and subsidies.

John L. Lewis has recently gone on record as favoring militant labor action in the political field for the purpose of improving labor's share of the national income. He is by no means alone in the faith that this method will get the desired result, but his standing as a labor leader increases tremendously his responsibility for selecting and advocating the right way.

We may grant that as a tactician, and in order to continue his comfortable job as a labor leader, Mr. Lewis may have made a strategic choice, since so many people are now imbued with a naive and touching faith in the capacity of government to do all things. But there is grave doubt as to the economic wisdom of his choice, hence there is grave doubt over his qualifications as a genuine Moses for the Children of Labor. He will be neither the first nor the last leader to give his followers stones for bread.

Let us be sure, first of all, that we see clearly just what is to be done. The vital distinction between money incomes and real incomes is not always recognized, and it is clearly overlooked by those who seek wage increase by governmental or labor fiat.

Money income is the amount of money in the pay envelope, while real income is the amount of things that can be bought with the money. Of course, real income is the important kind, and the level of real income that any one of us can enjoy depends not only on our money but on the scale of prices. The ideal arrangement would be a large money income and a low level of prices. Then we could all have our "three squares" daily, also country estates, automobiles, fur coats, pianos, and such other things as our hearts desire.

But the prices of goods in the market are determined by the cost of producing them. When an employer is obliged to pay higher prices for materials and higher wages to labor, he must charge more. Mr. Lewis would have legislation to control the employer's price and his profit. Presumably he would limit prices and profits, doubtless on the theory that all profits are excessive profits.

No law, however, can compel an employer to continue employing labor and making goods when the price and profit control has wiped out his capital. Consequently, when the government, or a labor union, forces employers to raise wages arbitrarily, their action may be forcing employers into bankruptcy, in which case labor will get much less instead of more.

It is possible for a limited group of workers to apply "squeeze" tactics to their own advantage, just as it is possible for an employer to do the same thing in the absence of fair collective bargaining. When this is done, the abnormal wage gains of some workers are offset, either by corresponding wage reductions elsewhere, or by price advances, which are in effect a reduction of the real income of all workers. In this country we have known monopoly of labor as well as of capital. These monopolistic labor "squeezes" have benefited some, but not all workers.

The advocates of governmental wage and price regulation hold that the government can, by decree, increase the real incomes of all workers through the double-barreled device of ordaining higher money incomes and lower prices. This is pure illusion. The only elastic element between such harsh upper and nether millstones in business profit and it would very quickly be ground to dust between them.

It may be asked, therefore, if this conclusion regarding the futility of improving the real incomes of those at the bottom by arbitrary governmental action be sound, how can this improvement be effected? This is a proper question to anyone who criticizes the supposedly constructive program of another.

When Wesley W. Stout knew definitely he was to take over the editorship of the Saturday Evening Post, following the retirement of the late George Horace Lorimer, he decided to brush up on his literary background before the actual duties began. He wanted to do a lot of reading and historical research, so he bought a couple of five-foot shelves, sundry biographies and reference works and shipped as a super-cargo on a merchant ship for distant ports. The super-cargo is a sort of purser on a freighter. He has scarcely any work, save when loading and unloading.

Joe Frisco's famous "heater" —the cigar he constantly puffed from the moment he awakened until he went to sleep again—has been abandoned, temporarily at least. After almost a life-time of furious smoking, Frisco was ordered to slow up, and, not able to handle the habit moderately, gave it up altogether. His cigar and puffs of smoke were long a part of his dance routine, but he now uses an imitation cigar and leaves the smoke to imagination.

New York's somewhat mysterious first-nighter, the middle-aged Mrs. Katzenberg, is loyal this season to the rather moribund legitimate theater. There are not as many opening nights as there used to be, but she does not miss those that carry on. A bright blond, swathed in ermine, she has occupied first row seats on the aisle at every premiere for years. She has no theatrical alliances, is the wife of a business man and is merely an admirer of the theater and its illusions. She never exchanges a word with the others in the first night crowd, most of whom know each other intimately. All producers include her on the must lists for those who are mailed seats and promptly return checks. There are not many, for most of the first night crowd comes in free.

The men's bar at the Waldorf has become the uptown meeting place for the tired business man before he goes home for dinner. Just as was the old Waldorf bar on 34th street. But there isn't the camaraderie of the days when the biggities drak old fashioneds or rye straight, swapped Pullman car DeCamerons, perhaps huddled in song and maybe phoned home they were delayed at the office. The New Waldorf crowd indulges a thin sherry, Dubonnet or something else light. Their talk seems cool and glassy. Men bow politely but there's little treating. Instead of interest in the last race at Pimlico, they invariably discuss the political affairs. It is a new generation grown up, lacking the abandon of the old and taut as fiddle strings, as though wondering just what.

A gentleman from Flemingsburg, Ky., writes of riding northward in a New York sight-seeing bus and of the megaphonist at a certain corner shouting: "On the left is the apartment house home of the columnist O. O. McIntyre." And I have been sitting at the front window trying to look nonchalant practically ever since.

STYERT SEEN AS SERVICE CHIEF

Mayor-Elect Silent on Who He Will Appoint; Herlihy and Rahm Mentioned.

alty nomination in 1935, when he was defeated by James F. Carrigan, who lost in the November election to Mayor Earl A. McFarland. The service-safety director's post pays a salary of $3,000 a year. So strong are the rumors that Styert has the inside track for the job that no other possibilities seem to be even mentioned.

While no comment was forthcoming from Styert today, he did say he was negotiating for the sale of his meat market at 113 Newman street where he has been in business for the past 36 years. He added that he "expected to close the deal within the next four weeks."

Others who are believed to be in line for serious consideration are James M. Herlihy and Jacob Rahm. Both held city posts under the last Democratic mayor, Charles M. Lantz. Herlihy was superintendent of the waterworks and is considered a likely candidate to take that job over again.

Rahm, superintendent of parks under Lantz is also being touted as a man who will do a comeback. The water department job pays $2,100 a year and the parks post $1,800.

For the post of superintendent of streets, rumor has it that the leading candidate at the present is Donnell D. Orewiler, at present employe of the state highway department, and Joseph Piper's name can be heard when the talk gets around to the job of water department secretary. Both jobs pays $2,100.

The new mayor will have, also, an appointment to make to the civil service commission. The term of Stanley Blackstone, Democratic secretary of the commission, expires Dec. 31. Terms of Dr. L. C. Benedict and Freh F. Huber expire in 1939 and 1941 respectively.

There seems to be little speculation as to who will be named garbage disposal superintendent, a post now held by Lester Linham, but some observers feel inclined to believe that Paul Sotherland, a Republican, will be retained as sewage disposal plant superintendent, on the ground that he is probably the only man in Mansfield qualified for the position, one requiring a large degree of technical knowledge.

In addition to the major positions, the new mayor will have more than a score of minor appointments to consider, and there is also to be considered the projected plan for the extension of civil service among city employes, backed by the Mansfield Trades council. This situation is expected to make the selection of the new civil service commissioner one of major importance.

As at present constituted, the commission has but one Democratic member, and that is the retiring Blackstone. While supposed to be non-political in nature, the complexion of the commission will remain Republican, unless one of the two hold-over members should resign, which would give Hunter a chance to appoint another Democrat.

ASKS FUNDS TO EXPAND COUNTY JUVENILE STAFF

Committee to Request Board For $3,600 to Hire Two Special Officers.

A committee of four members named to study the county juvenile delinquency problem will ask Richland county commissioners tomorrow to appropriate funds for the employment of two special deputies for the county juvenile court.

Atty. Francis R. O'Brien, spokesman for the committee, said the group would present its plan to commissioners in the morning, with the four committee members visiting the commissioners' office in a body.

Fund Pays Salaries.

The amount to be included in the request probably will range from $3,200 to $3,600 a year, which would provide salaries of $135 or $150 a month for the officers, O'Brien said.

The plan calling for the increase in the juvenile staff is the outgrowth of a meeting last month of representatives of the court, police department and youth groups in the city, when the delinquency problem and the under-manned juvenile department were discussed.

Members of the committee, named at that meeting, are O'Brien and Atty. Harold Burns, representing the Junior Association of Commerce, and Mrs. D. O. Meese and Mrs. David Boals, of the Mansfield P. T. A. Mrs. Boals is president of the P. T. A. council.

The juvenile court, which is a department of the probate court under Judge C. J. Anderson, has only two probation officers under the present set-up. Investigations into delinquency charges have been handled by city detectives, Lee J. Remy and Harry Copper, during the past several months.

MEXICAN PLOT SUSPECTS FREED

Dynamite, Believed Intended to Kill President, Found.

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—A score or more of men and women arrested in raids on the headquarters of several Rightist organizations in connection with what had been reliably reported as a plot on the life of President Lazaro Cardenas were released today.

A box of dynamite was seized at one of the places by judicial police and investigators connected with Cardenas' private secretariat.

A source close to the presidential palace said last night, at the time of the raids, that evidence of a conspiracy to dynamite Cardenas' special train had been uncovered.

ONE KILLED ON ICY HIGHWAYS

6 Others Hurt In Mansfield Area as 3-Inch Snow Makes Driving Hazardous.

police he was blinded by the snow and failed to see Scholler.

Numerous minor collisions were reported during the night and early today as the snowfall, heaviest of the season, packed into an ice coating under the pressure of traffic.

The snow, which began late yesterday was still falling at noon today, but the forecast predicted clear skies and colder weather Saturday.

Street and state highway maintenance crews were busy today covering hills and curves with cinders and salt as a protection to motorists. Several trucks were halted at the South Main street hill this morning by the ice coating and automobiles slipped and spun around at intersections in the city as drivers attempted to stop suddenly.

Salt Main Streets

A crew of workmen operating three trucks, under the direction of Charles H. Hebel, superintendent of streets, had literally "salted down" all of Mansfield's main thoroughfares today.

Hebel said the rock salt used today had been left over from last winter.

"There is about 20 tons on hand and should last two to three days unless we have a heavy freeze," Hebel said. He indicated that no calcium chloride would be used on city streets this winter because it costs approximately three times as much as rock salt.

He said the city had ordered a carload of salt (40 tons) and that it should be in Mansfield by the first of next week.

"The salt costs, somewhere around $7 a ton as compared to $22 per ton price of the calcium chloride."

The state highway department put seven trucks and 28 men on the county highways at 1 a. m. today to combat the snow and ice with cinders and salt, according to Arthur Fletcher, maintenance superintendent. The snow was not deep enough to require the use of plows, he said.

The snow was general over the northern half of the nation, Associated Press dispatches said, with the fall ranging from a trace to more than seven inches in Wyoming. A sharp drop in temperature was expected to follow the snow in Ohio.

The lowest reported today in the nation was 14 below zero at Dome Lake, Wyoming. It was four above at Devil Lake, N. D., usually one of the coldest spots in the west.

After falling to 26 in Mansfield last night, the mercury climbed to 32, the freezing point, at noon today.

WIFE STICKS TO MATE ACCUSED OF KILLING HER 1ST HUSBAND

ST. GEORGE, Utah — (U.P.) — Mrs. Charles Bosshard didn't go out to see the skeleton of her first husband when the sheriff brought it up from the bottom of a well near her house today. Instead, she went to the county jail to visit Bosshard, who killed her first husband, threw him in the well, deceived her about it and married her.

For nearly three years she had lived happily with Bosshard, thinking that Spencer Malan had deserted her. She got a divorce from him on the grounds that he had left her on his sheep ranch with a boy eight years old. Bosshard had told her that Malan ran off. All the time Malan was dead and lying at the bottom of the 50-foot hole, just a short ways from the house.

Today, the woman had to choose whether she would be Spencer Malan's widow or Charles Bosshard's wife. She liked the latter role better.

"Charlie has atoned for it by being so good to me," she said. Spencer was mean to me and to the boy, too."

So she went to the jail to console Bosshard, who is charged with murdering Malan.

"I'll stick by you, Charlie, right to the end. It doesn't matter."

Also charged with murder was George Schaeffer, Mrs. Bosshard's brother. He helped throw the body in the well, he said. He also helped Bosshard deceive his sister about it.

The slaying happened on the night of March 17, 1935. They had all been out to a dance, Bosshard, Mr. and Mrs. Malan, and Schaeffer, and the men were drinking, they said. They went outside Bosshard's house, Malan flew into a drunken rage for some reason that they did not understand, and Bosshard hit him with an iron pipe, they said. They threw him in the well and convinced his widow, and the neighbors that Malan had deserted his wife.

The neighbors, however, never did quite believe that story. Their suspicions finally reached the ears of the sheriff, who questioned Bosshard and got a confession.

BOAT ARRIVES TO EVACUATE U. S. EMBASSY

Johnson and Staff to Leave Nanking For Safety of New China Capital.

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—The United States gunboat Luzon arrived at Nanking today after a full-steam race from Hankow to embark American Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson and his staff.

Johnson, like other diplomats, intends to evacuate the capital and move up the Yangtze river to Hankow, where the government is to establish emergency headquarters in view of the danger of a Japanese thrust at the capital.

It was arranged that two secretaries should remain in charge of the embassy at Nanking.

Delays Announcement.

The government delayed its formal announcement of its evacuation, but the evacuation was speeded daily. Thousands of civilians crowded the waterfront and the railroad stations in the mud and rain.

To insure continuity of work, the government odered a few ministers and officials to remain at Nanking for the present.

At the request of foreign missionaries, Ambassador Johnson communicated to Japanese authorities regarding a refugee camp which has been established near Soochow, next objective of the Japanese drive westward from Shanghai. It was understood that he asked the Japanese to issue orders that safety of refugees should be assured.

For the third day rain grounded Japanese airplanes. But on the ground, slithering through the mud west of Shanghai, Japanese troops continued their relentless drive on the disorganized Chinese army.

A Japanese army spokesman announced that at dawn today the Japanese occupied Changshu and completed heir smashing of the Fushan-Changshu line of defense extending from the Yangtze river bank southward toward Soochow. At the same time, the spokesman said, Japanese stormed and took Yushan, northwest of Changshu, and Mocheng, southwest.

WARNS AGAINST 'RABBIT FEVER'

Health Commissioner Advises Hunters Not to Take Inactive Game.

With the hunting season well under way, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner, today issued a warning to hunters to be on guard for tularemia or "rabit fever."

Although only two cases have been reported in Richland county in the past ten years, one each in 1931 and 1936, the disease has shown a slight increase over the nation and has been reported from every state except two, Dr. Rehder said.

Tularemia is an infectious disease of wild rodens, especially rabbits, Dr. Rehder explained, and is usually contracted accidentally while dressing game through wounds in the skin. Ingestion of insufficiently cooked meat from infected animals may also cause the disease, he pointed out.

Dr. Rehder cautioned hunters not to take inactive rabbits those brought in by a dog, or those that can be chased down and killed with a club.

"In dressing rabbits it would be well if every person wore rubber gloves," the commissioner said.

"After handling rabbits, the hands should be thoroughly cleansed, as contaminated hands may convey the germs to the eyes, which are susceptiblte to the infection."

FIGHT DISEASE ON MASS SCALE

Medical Experts Map Program For Mass Innoculations to Battle Pneumonia.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Possible mass innoculation of Americans to attempt to eradicate pneumonia, third on the list of diseases which take the heaviest toll of life, was considered by nine medical experts who met with Dr. Thomas Parran, jr., surgeon general of the U. S. public health service.

Dr. Lloyd R. Felton, Baltimore bacteriologist and a member of the group, discovered the serum which is now being given to 300,000 members of the civilian conservation corps to protect them against pneumonia. The serum is effective in about two out of every three cases of pneumonia, Felton said.

The conference, it was understood, was to consider the possibility of making the serum available through mass production methods. Doctors, however, were warned that it was expensive to produce the serum in small lots. They also were told that the serum would spoil unless there was adequate provision in various sections of the nation for its storage.

THE STATE vs. ELNA JEPSON

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER XIX.

For a moment Elna was tempted to break faith with Roger and take this way of escape. Nothing but the whole truth would satisfy this man. It meant that Jewell would have to pit his conviction against the rest of the department, the district attorney maybe. In such a controversy as that, Roger's name would surely be involved.

Elna knew that the battle was over, that she had chosen her own way.

"You may go to your room and pack a bag of essentials. Make it as quick as you can, but put in everything you need." Jewell stopped abruptly. Elna knew that he beleived she would not return for a long time. "Bring all the cash you have, and your checkbook," his voice followed her along the hall.

In one hand, when Elna returned from her bedroom to Jewell, was a suitcase, in the other a snapshot of herself and Roger on the beach. Elna woke up at dawn—a gray, cloudy dawn against black bars. For a moment she was bewildered, then she remembered. She lay in a narrow bed in a room shared by six other women. The day returned with a lurid clarity of nightmare.

The matron, dressed like a trained nurse, had led her up a flight of stairs late the night before after her "booking." In her fatigue, it had seemed little more than signing a hotel register.

"Never mind, dearie, it won't be so bad, once you're used to it." The words were hardly audible to Elna, but she heard the clang of the opening door. "Here you are."

Elna flashed one glance into the room. One face was old and horrible and blowsy, with gray hair streaking the pillow. A negro girl, brought in as a drunk, sprawled across the bed. A thin girl twitched and moaned, begging for a "shot."

"But I can't do it," Elna heard herself saying. "I'd rather sleep on the floor than in there. Don't make me do it!"

She had turned and seized the matron, sobbing against her shoulder. The matron's big arms hugger her and pinioned her in the same gesture.

"Be quiet, dearie, or you'll wake the girls," she said soothingly. "I see how you feel. You just come along with me quiet now."

Elna leaned on the big woman's arm, then lay limp on the matron's own couch. The matron slipped into her own bedroom, and poured a glass of milk to heat in a small pan on her little electric stove. While it heated, she opened one of the drawers of her chest. She brought forth a nightgown of heavy but pure linen, embroidered with her own hands.

She sighed as she poured the hot milk into a grass and added a tablet from her medicine closet. "Drink this, dearie, it will make you feel better," she said, holding the milk to Elna's lips. Elna drank it. "Your own things have not come. Would you mind sleeping in one of my own gowns? It's quite clean." She held the nightgown before Elna's eyes.

The blankness of those eyes wakened. "Oh," said Elna. "It's beautiful! That linen must have been woven by hand. And the embroidery, every stitch lovely." She hugged the nightgown to her breast. "Oh, thank you, thank you. It is beautiful."

"It is nothing—if it gives comfort," the matron said awkwardly. No one in the new country had cared for Mrs. Nielsen's old country linens. She sat by Elna on the couch. "Listen to me," she said. "I've seen a lot of girls here. Remember that they are human. Think of that the first thing in the morning. They are human as you are. I don't think they can help being what they are. Perhaps you'd have gone the same way with the same life. Go to sleep now. I'll see you in the morning."

Elna's eyes dropped under the influence of the sedative. Mrs. Nielsen's body bent as she carried the young girl, undressed her near the door, and slipped her into the seventh bed.

In the morning, half awake, Elna's eyes circled the gray plastered walls. She was in the room with the "girls," all asleep, one of them snoring. She herself was one of the "girls." She sat up, clasping the embroidery of the stiff pure linen about her. In one corner was a wash basin, with a roller towel beside it. It still bore the stains of the previous day. She buried her face in the long sleeve of the old-fashioned nightgown and sobbed. "I cannot bear it—I can't." She wiped her eyes and caught sight of her clothes neatly folded on the chair.

"No," she whispered. "Father, who loved freedom above all, would not have done what I did last night. 'Stone walls do not a prison make'—he was wrong about that. He'd never have been there. But I'll never fail him so again. He said, 'Go on your way, whatever it is, but once you know what you want, let nothing you dismay.' And that's just what I'm doing! I'm going the way of my own choice and nothing can stop me."

For the first time since Roger had been only a promise to be kept at all costs, Elna leaped with a sudden joy. Why, of course, Roger would disentangle every mistake she had made. He would come as soon as he heard of the turn things had taken. He would defend her—he was already her attorney, which made things simpler.

He was one of the most astute lawyers in the state, noted for pulling hard cases out of the fire. And this time he would have a motive as never before—not merely for love for which men often did a dishonorable thing, but honor itself. His too had been a mistake in placing so serious a responsibility on her inexperienced shoulders. There was one responsibility that was unavoidable. Roger would defend her, not for loyalty, not for love, but because leadership throughout their friendship had been his, and he had led her into trouble. Loyalty and love were still good, but honor was best of all.

Elna rose, her face serene, almost radiant. Immediately she heard a tap on the door with its square inner opening ajar.

"Just like an old-time speakeasy," Elna thought with an inward smile.

"Good morning, dear," Mrs. Nielsen said softly. "I sat outside waiting for you." Her face, usually pink, was white with fatigue.

Elna did not notice the change of address. She had yet to learn that in police parlance women matrons called their individual charges "dearie," just as collectively they were "girls" regardless of age.

"Has any one called for me?" Elna asked eagerly.

"No dear, it's far too early, and anyway a visitor would have to get a permit from the chief of inspectors for a visit out of regular hours."

"He will get the permit, and when he comes, I want to see him," Elna's face, so full of confidence, troubled Mrs. Nielsen more than the face of the night before.

"My name is Miss Jepson," Elna said, pushing her hand through the wicket. None of Mrs. Nielsen's "girls" had ever introduced themselves with this friendly dignity.

With shy embarrassment, she said, "And I Mrs Nielsen." It was the first time in her 20 years as jail matron that she had felt herself a human being, with a personal relation. The girls called her "Matron," sometimes wept with facile gratitude when they left. The police, according to the occasion, addressed her with jollity as "Mother." She joked them back and made them Scandinavian cookies. They could not know that a little stab always came at the thought of her long dead daughter when they called her "Mother." They could not know of the old days when she was always "Mrs Nielsen," not "Matron." But they liked her—partly because she was good at handling girls, partly for the cookies, partly because she let fall once, when gifts were being distributed, that she had no home, no relatives. She had said it cheerfully, without a trace of sentiment.

"I, I am the only free one of you all," she said pinkfaced and laughing. "I need no gift, I have no one and instead I will give you a gift. I will dance you one old dance, and sing you one of our Christmas songs."

After that she had been frankly the pet of the force. Any newcomer who dared to complain of favoritism received a glare and a reminder of years of service done better than any one else had done them.

* * *

Mrs Nielsen told Elna nothing of this, but she held her hand, patting it gently. "I must tell you things, dear." Her eyes, despite their age, had the unquenchable brightness of a bird's. "We shall play a game, you and I, and no one shall know. No one must know that we are friends. That will make it harder for you. But I shall give you advice once in a while. I, who know this jail like the ward politician his voters."

Elna nodded. She had squeezed the old matron's hand at the word "friends," and said, "You mean advice—right now?"

"We shall play." Mrs. Nielsen nodded like a white-haired witch. "We shall play that you are being put to a test, as in the old fairy tales. Whenever it seems like a nightmare, you will say, No, it is a game. I can win this point. See?"

"I see," Elna agreed doubtfully, "only it seems a bit like getting away from reality. A murder charge is no fairy tale."

"Oh, there are many murders in fairy tales." Mrs. Nielsen contradicted firmly. "But forgive me for chattering on like this, my child. It is many years since I have really talked—said the things I think and mean, even to those who are kind."

An insistent bell sounded below.

"That's the day matron." Mrs. Nielsen hastily grasped her chair. "Chatterbox!" she scolded herself as she hurried to her quarters. "I wasted all my time and forgot to tell her the sensible things. Poor lamb, she'll have to manage alone."

* * *

As she flopped into bed, sleep heavy on her wrinkled eyelids, she thought only of how she had comforted her long dead daughter in her childish troubles with fairy tales; and how, as the child grew older, they had laughed when Greta had come, demanding, "Mama, I do need the Iron Heart today." When she lay dying, between her screams, she had begged: "Tell me about the sleeping princess who woke up—especially when she woke up."

How to Be a "Reg'lar" Fellow—Without Pills

There's a better way to get on the "regular" side than by overstimulating your intestines with cathartics. Give up the vest-pocket cures and eat a natural laxative food—Kellogg's All-Bran.

Instead of abusing your intestines, All-Bran supplies TWO things they need. First, it's a good source of vitamin "B,"—the vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract. Second, All-Bran provides "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination.

Eat this crunchy, toasted cereal with milk or cream and fruits—or in cooking. But however you eat it, use it regularly: eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. At every grocer's.

High School Students Give Recognition to 17 Seniors at Final 'Pep' Meeting.

Recognition was given the 17 senior members of the Senior high school football team at a football rally held this afternoon in the school auditorium in preparation for the annual Mansfield-Ashland football game tomorrow at Stadium field.

The 17 seniors will play their final high school game against Ashland. Other members of the squad also were presented to the student body.

Short talks were given by J. Russell Murphy, football coach, and John Hallabrin and Warren Rupp, representing the team.

Music for the rally was furnished by the high school band under the direction of J. Merton Holcombe. The school's cheer leaders, Gene Lantz Robert Rhodes, Donald Ross, Albert Allen Robert Straub and George Biddle, led the student body in several cheers. Albert Allen acted as master of ceremonies of the rally.

The football season at the high school will be climaxed by a school dance, to be known as the "Pigskin Prance." Saturday night in the gymnasium. The 11-A class is sponsoring the affair.

NAMED IN WILL

12 Persons and Organizations Left $18,800 Estate.

Twelve bequests totaling $18,800 are made in the will of Mrs. Carrie Day Clark, late of Mansfield, which had been filed today in probate court.

Included in the bequests is one for $1,000 to the Ladies Aid society of the First Congregational church, Mansfield, while the largest is for $6,000 which was left to B F Day, an uncle.

The will provides that the $1 000 left to the Congregational Ladies Aid be held in trust as the "Willis B. Day fund."

Among the funds distributed under provisions of the will are trustees of the Plymouth cemetery $300, Sadie E Day a sister-in-law, $2,500; Mrs. May R. Beers, Mansfield, a cousin, $2,000 and Jennie B. Prestiss, a cousin, $2,000.

SKUNK WINS PET PRIZE

NEWBURGH, N Y.—(U.P.)—Theodore Sera's pet skunk won the prize for the oddest pet to be exhibited at the Tailwaggers' Dog and Pet Show here. The animal was admitted only after its youthful owner assured the hesitant chairman that "he was safe."

Carpenter's Tools Used to Perform Bone Opeartion

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—Physicians at Osteopathic Hospital here were forced to set aside their scientific surgical instruments recently and use instead a set of carpenter tools to perform a delicate bone grafting operation.

Mrs. Lillian Tappen, 60, suffered a broken arm in an automobile accident about a year and a half ago The bone never set right because of injured nerves.

Drs. Edward G Drew, Carl Frey and Robert Warden, reverted to the use of a common cold chisel, a hammer, electric saw and drill to take a piece of bone from her right leg and graft it to her useless arm.

With the saw, the physicians cut away two grooves in the woman's leg parallel to the shin bone. They used the chisel and hammer to lift out a splinter of bone, 6 inches long and a half-inch thick. This piece was then fastened to the injured arm.

Throughout the operation, Mrs. Tappin was under an anaesthetic.

TAPPAN STOVE SPENDS $90,000 FOR EXPANSION

Improvements Include Factory Addition, Installation of New Machinery.

A plant expansion and improvement program that includes the purchase of new machinery and an $8,000 addition to the factory building of the Tappan Stove company was announced today by A. C. Rhoads, secretary of the firm.

The expenditure of $90,000, which includes the addition, was spent largely for plant improvements, Rhoads said.

The major improvement, outside of the purchase of five new forming presses was the consolidation of the assembly lines on one floor instead of three different floors.

The re-arrangement of the storage of parts and the forming presses have increased efficiency of production considerably," Rhoads explained.

New Lighting System.

He pointed out that a new and modern lighting system has been installed and a penthouse addition now being completed is one of the finest and most complete employes washrooms in industry. All the latest types of fixtures have been installed.

As the result of these improvements, the company has made possible an increase in production of approximately 50 per cent, Rhoads added.

Although the firm at present is experiencing a seasonal slump, Rhoads said a new line of models would be announced by about Feb. 1 and that production would undoubtedly be stepped to a new peak when the new models are placed on the market.

WORLD'S TONIC GIVES HER BEST HEALTH EVER

Bladder and Bowels Easily Regulated, Nerves Quieted, Dizzy Spells Gone.

World's Tonic Just What Mrs. Fred Rudinger Had Needed for Years

"It took World's Tonic less than a month to prove its merit in my case," said Mrs. Fred Rudinger of 456 Gray St., Zanesville, O. "Stomach trouble, dizziness, high blood pressure, kidney trouble, and bilious attacks had made me miserable. Often I was so dizzy I would have to hold on to something to keep from falling. Then too I was terribly nervous and had gas on my stomach to add to my distress. But I was really the most miserable with kidney and bladder trouble. Up three and four times each night, could get little unbroken sleep. When I would get up mornings I felt stiff like as if I had been beaten with a club and was gradually wearing out it seemed. But now—thanks to World's Tonic, I am like a different person."

"It is almost unbelievable how quickly I was restored to good health," she continued. "My entire system has been greatly benefited by World's Tonic, stomach and kidneys regulated, bowels in splendid condition and dizziness has gone. It is wonderful to be able to eat and sleep good and enjoy life like others again. World's Tonic is truly a medicine of outstanding merit."

A few doses of World's Tonic will convince you that it is the medicine medicine of outstanding merit."

THE NEWS-JOURNAL

— SECOND SECTION —

MANSFIELD, OHIO — FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1937

CROWD IN CAPITOL—Hundreds jam the capitol in Washington for special session of congress, now in session.

Chances Brighten for Passage of Wage, Farm Bills

CONGRESS TO DEBATE CROP PLAN MONDAY

Lewis' Promise to Support Wage, Hour Proposal Spurs Special Session.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Prospects improved today for enacting wage-hour standards and crop control legislation — two of President Roosevelt's recommendations — before congress quits for the Christmas holidays.

A statement by John L. Lewis terming the wage-hour bill "undeniably sound" in principle, despite "serious limitations," encouraged its sponsors to redouble efforts to get the bill before the house.

Lewis wrote Chairman Norton (D-NP) of the house labor committee that labor's non-partisan league, which he heads, would do everything possible to bring about passage of the measure as soon as possible.

Open Debate Monday.

Although some leaders remained dubious about the wage-hour bill's chances at this session, they agreed that both house and senate probably could start debating farm legislation on Monday.

Details of the measure were not in final form, but Secretary Wallace's ever-normal granary program is expected to form a base for marketing quota provisions.

Democratic Leader Barkley predicted the senate could pass the farm bill in a week, and that the anti-lynching measure would take another week.

That would leave the final two weeks of the session for the government reorganization bill. Some senators, however, forecast the farm debate would take up most of the remaining time.

A number of legislators, eager to obtain relaxation of the corporate taxes on business, still were were talking hopefully of obtaining action at this session. But leaders discounted the possibility, in the belief that the house subcommittee studying the question would not report in time.

Prolong Filibuster.

Except for the tax study, committee activity this week has been confined exclusively to the president's legislative program. As a result, once the administration measures reach the senate and house floors, they will have little competition.

In the meantime, however, house members were speaking on any subject that struck their fancy, and southern senators were prolonging their filibuster against the anti-lynching bill.

They called on Senator Dixie Bibb Graves (D-Ala) to take the floor this afternoon, barring a decision to recess early for the week-end.

Pays Back State For Pensions Of Two Aged Ohioans

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—With mixed emotions of satisfaction and pride, H. J. Berrodin, chief of the state division of aid for the aged, today closed two "case histories" in the Lorain county subdivision office.

With the closing of the records, the state division received a check for $498 as the entire amount spent during the past two years in caring for two aged recipients in that county.

Berrodin displayed a letter from the adopted daughter of the two recipients, one of whom is now dead, saying that she had been only too glad to pay back to the state all pension allowances made, and sought to pay additional funds for interest.

The adopted daughter, the letter said, has taken over the full responsibilities for the care of her foster father. The foster mother died several months ago.

The letter said the aged pension recipient "feels if he does not receive aid it will be that much more for someone else who is more in need."

Members of Luther Swigart chapter, Rainbow Veterans Association, were presented with a souvenir last night that carries a lot of sentimental value for them. It was a framed picture of the late Col. Benson W. Hough, who was their commanding officer in France and who was with the men of the 166th infantry through the nerve-shattering days of Champaign, Meuse-Argonne and Chateau-Thierry. It is an autographed picture and was given to the chapter by J. Earl Ports, who served as Col. Hough's quartermaster for 10 years in the O. N. G. after the war.

MITCHELL NAMED PRESIDENT OF NORTHCENTRAL OHIO OFFICIALS

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the Richland county board of commissioners, was elected president of the Northcentral Ohio Commissioners', Auditors' and Engineers' association at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Fairway near Galion.

Mitchell, who was vice president of the organization this year, will succeed Oscar Dunn, Lorain county commissioner.

Dan S. Yoder, Wayne county auditor, was elected vice president of the group, and F. F. Wicks, auditor of Ashland county, was chosen secretary-treasurer. H. C. Sword, Richland county engineer, has been secretary of the association during 1937.

Speaking to more than 120 representatives of seven counties in this section at yesterday's session, C. H. Duncan, head of the Ohio Contractors' association, called for a greater percentage of the gas tax and auto license fees for highway purposes.

"If the state and county road departments received all of the revenue from motor vehicles and gasoline, it would still be insufficient to put the state's road system in the condition demanded by motorists," Duncan said.

"Of the amount spent for road purposes the motorist gets more than his money's worth from his tax expenditures," he added.

Duncan criticized the tendency to reduce real estate taxes and place the burden with the motor car owner and "the average man."

"Only the big property owner benefits by the real estate tax cut, while the average citizen is forced to assume the burden in sales taxes, gasoline tax and nuisance levies," he declared.

The meeting followed a luncheon and a program of vaudeville acts arranged by the Richland county officials who were hosts at the session.

CHEERS GREET JURY'S VERDICT OF 'NOT GUILTY'

Pomeroy Officer Acquitted In G. O. P. Leader's Death; Maps New Court Fight.

POMEROY — (AP) — Roscoe O. Fowler, first Democrat ever elected sheriff in traditionally Republican Meigs county, went free today of a second-degree murder charge in the death of Republican Leader Lafe Williamson but still had to combat a court suspension order before regaining his office.

A common pleas jury last night acquitted the officer of the murder charge and three companion counts.

Facing him still is a court hearing on an ouster petition, date for which has not yet been set.

An explosion of hand clapping and cheers re-echoed through the courtroom as Foreman D. T. Summerfield announced that the jury had given Fowler a clean bill.

The demonstration was quieted quickly as Judge Frank M. Acton of Lancaster, sitting by assignment after Common Pleas Judge C. E Peoples withdrew because of his activity in the case, rebuked the spectators.

Holds No Malice.

"It has been an ordeal, but my conscience has been clear," stated Fowler. "In my whole life time I have never had an argument with Lafe Williamson. I want to state that I hold no malice toward anyone."

Mrs. Fowler, seated beside her husband, grasped the sheriff's hands tightly while she smiled through tears at defense and prosecuting attorneys who rushed to the defendant and congratulated him. Fowler himself showed little emotion as he pushed through the crowd of well wishers toward the jurors, whom he thanked individually.

The sheriff threw his arms around Mrs. Williamson, widow of the man he was accused of fatally blackjacking, and her daughter, Jeanne, as the three conversed in whispers before the jurors.

Eight ballots were taken to reach the general acquittal during the approximate hour of actual deliberation.

The ouster hearing Fowler faces originally was scheduled for the same days as his second degree murder trial and for that reason was postponed indefinitely. It came after a second petition was circulated asking the sheriff's removal.

The first petition, charging Fowler permitted gambling and had failed to arrest Williamson's slayer, was circulated during Special Prosecutor L. Crary Davis' investigation of the case before the sheriff's indictment.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

A Senator Freed.

ONE OF THE factors likely to flavor not only this extra session of congress, but the regular session to follow is the changed attitude of Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi. For the first time in five years Senator Harrison is able to be himself.

It isn't his convictions that have changed; it's his position. What has happened is that the reasons which prevented him from either freely expressing his opinions or standing up and fighting for them no longer exist. As a result, he is a happier man and a more useful senator. It is a good thing for him and a good thing for the country that he was not elected majority leader of the senate—an honor he ardently desired.

THIS IS NOT said in an uncomplimentary sense, as he possesses qualities which would have made him a successful and effective leader, but because the leadership would have compelled him to continue subordinating his own views to those of the White House, kept him in line for policies in which he did not believe and regarded as dangerous. Able, clear-headed and experienced, a man of high personal character, many engaging traits and a considerable senate following, Mr. Harrison, freed from his former handicaps, is equipped now to become a greater force in the senate and in the country than would have been possible for him as senate leader, forced to echo the president's views, no matter what they were. There are evidences that he intends to.

UNQUESTIONABLY Senator Harrison suffered a lot in the past four years, "going along" with the New Deal when he felt it was going in the wrong direction. Essentially, he is the same kind of Democrat as Senator Carter Glass. What kept him advocating New Deal policies which Senator Glass opposed, was the fact that Senator Glass was free and he was not. Now they are both free. Two things formerly shackled Senator Harrison. One was his deep personal devotion to Senator Joe Robinson, whom he supported through thick and thin. The other was that as chairman of the powerful senate finance committee his support was essential to the White House and indispensable to Senator Robinson. Combine these with the fact that Mr. Harrison is a strong party man, whose natural tendency is to stand with the party leader, and you have the full explanation of why he swallowed so many unpalatable White House doses and so many times uncomplainingly held the bag when the White Houhe shifted.

BUT THOSE DAYS, so far as Senator Harrison is concerned, are gone forever. The death of his old friend, Joe, removed one very potent reason for accepting Mr. Roosevelt's orders when they clash with his own beliefs. And the White House part in defeating him for the leadership removes any obligation he otherwise might have felt toward Mr. Roosevelt personally. When, in addition, it is recalled that Mr. Harrison was re-elected last year for his fourth term as senator and has six years to serve before another campaign, the full degree of his independence can be appreciated. He is not a vindictive man and he will continue to have pleasant personal relations with the president and often will co-operate with Senator Barkley, who defeated him in the Democratic caucus by a single vote on a secret ballot. But he no longer has to obey the one, and the other can hardly expect the sort of devotion that Mr. Harrison gave "Old Joe."

THE MISSISSIPPI senator is under no delusions as to who beat him for the leadership. He knows that despite the "hands-off" assurance from the White House, word went out from there that "You can't trust Pat" and that Senator Dieterich, of Illinois, who badly wanted to support him, was switched to Senator Barkley by personal White House pressure. So were at least two others. Mr. Harrison cherishes no grudge against either the president or Senator Barkley and he is not at all bitter. As a matter of fact, as he witnesses the present pain of his successful rival, he thinks he was pretty lucky not to have landed the leadership, and he is greatly enjoying his freedom.

THE BEST indication of this was in that ringing telegram to Secretary Morgenthau, in which he insisted the time had come to stop talking; repeal tax laws which cripple business and balance the budget by rigid economy. He exhibited in this telegram and in private conversations since, a desire to go much farther and faster in this direction than either the president or Mr. Morgenthau. Moreover, he means it and he can't now be shunted around. He can be reasoned with, but not smacked into line by the White House whips, which is fine. One reason for the mess which has been made of Federal affairs is that men like Senator Harrison with too much sense to believe in the New Deal panaceas were not in a position to be independent—or, anyhow, thought they were not.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Here's a new note on the educational influence of the movies. A school teacher (not in Hollywood) was faced with a disturbing phenomenon. Seemed every time one of her pupils went to the blackboard there was tense interest among the others, and frequently the reciting child suddenly sat on the floor amid general glee. Being a good disciplinarian, the schoolmarm got to the bottom of things immediately, learned the children were engaged in a continuous game called Parkyakarkus—"if any kid forgets to keep his fingers crossed," as one explained, "he's gotta park-his-karkus—right there!"

Interesting short: Pete Smith's essay on "Radium."

That silver anniversary dinner for Eddie Cantor set 20th Century back about $6,000—and worth it, too, if for no other reason than it got Jack Benny on the air kidding Eddie's "Ali Baba." . . .

New little actress in "Having Wonderful Time" is Becky Bayer, who wants to change her name to Bretta but doesn't specify whether whole wheata or white-a. . . .

Inevitable item from the "Robin Hood" location: "With a bow and arrow, Errol Flynn, Warner Bros. star, killed a 25-pound wildcat in the woods near Chico, Cal." Why are they having a peace conference, anyway, now that the redoubtable Errol has mastered the bow and arrow and could settle all those foreign messes single-handed?

Today's quotation: Rose Stradner (of "The Last Gangster") surveys the question of casual romance and career:—"An actress more than women in any other profession always has to look her best. She cannot if she is emotionally upset." (Miss Stradner is a newcomer in Hollywood, apparently unfamiliar with the truism that no movie actress becomes too emotionally upset to look her best for the news cameras.)

Joseph Calleia has solved the problem actors have in getting away from it all. Calleia had a six-months' vacation recently, and wanted to be alone, except for a quick trip to New York. He managed it. For six months he found uninterrupted leisure to write a play, to read the books he's been planning to read, and to compose songs which prove a profitable hobby. How did he do it? He refused to answer the telephone, wrote letters to no one, avoided public places. And where was his hide-out? Right here in Hollywood, at his home.

Beautiful photography by George Barnes of some of the nicest scenery in Washington state distinguishes "The Barrier," a good old Rex Bear yarn about the pretty girl who thinks she's a half-breed but isn't and so can marry the dashing army officer after all. Occasionally, watching the reels unwind, I had the feeling that too many actors and too much plot were getting in the way of the scenery—but the actors (Leo Carrillo, Jean Parker, James Ellison, Robert Barrat, Otto Kruger, Andy Clyde) did what they could with the materials, and the result is good for a few laughs—or heart-throbs if you take it seriously.

The organization met at the Y. W. C. A. with Mrs. George Hoover in charge of arrangements.

"Church Women in United Action" was the subject of Mrs. Worrell's talk when she explained the advantages of having representatives at the Columbus headquarters. She emphasized the fact that a much greater work can be done by the co-operative effort of Christian women in any field of endeavor.

The speaker indicated that with a changing world the needs of the world also differ and demand a different kind of women's church organizations. Today's Christian women, she feels, must be prepared to take active part in the various issues and problems confronting them and their communities For this reason particularly Mrs Worrell is anxious to see every denominational group affiliated with the council so that concerted action may be taken at any time upon any question of widespread interest.

The affair was a tea for the Federation. Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Boyd Robinson poured at a table decorated with cut fall flowers and fruit carrying out a Thanksgiving theme. Representatives from most of the Mansfield church were present for the meeting.

Although plans are being made for another meeting at a later date no definite time or place has been set as yet.

Mother Finds Unkind Talk Hard to Bear

By VIRGINIA LEE

"GIVE A DOG a bad name and hang him," is an old saying that I have quoted before in this column. It is the oddest thing that perfectly nice people, like ourselves, for instance, will repeat stories that we are not even sure are true, but that besmirch people's character.

We wouldn't hurt them in the crude manner which this letter tells about, but we do whisper things about them behind their backs and injure their reputations, just the same.

The letter is from the mother of a large family, and she is trying her best to bring her children up to be good, respectable, honest citizens. One of her boys was accused of taking a man's watch. The watch later was found, but when this mother goes up the street of her town people call after her, saying she is the mother of a thief. She also sees people whispering about her when she goes to church or comes out of it.

Another thing, the youngest girl in the family passes the place where the watch was lost, and the people there call after her, and she comes home crying. Can you imagine anyone being so cruel—even if the boy had actually stolen the watch?

The mother says she is trying to hold her head high, as her minister has told her to pay no attention to the remarks, and to have faith in God that things will come right. But you can imagine how this mother's heart hurts.

I can only tell you to do as your minister says, and in time people will forget about it. They will find something else about which to gossip and jeer. And you can teach your children the awful cruelty of such conduct and show them also that if even being suspected of a misdemeanor brings such unhappy results, how much worse it would be if any one of them really had a crime on his conscience. Being innocent one suffers, but at least one's conscience is clear.

Fish which contains few bones may be converted into filets by dividing the flesh from the backbone in long, wide strips and then removing any smaller bones. Soles supply the best filets.

Pickles Cocoanut Haystacks
Coffee Salted Nuts

You can vary this stuffed celery recipe, using shrimp, and various other things in the stuffing in place of the lobster or crab. The cocoanut haystacks are good and will be a surprise for your guests, if you have any for the meal. Add an onion and a bay leaf or two to the beef while it is roasting

Today's Recipes.

STUFFED CELERY — One bunch celery, one-half cup minced lobster meat or crabmeat, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, tabasco sauce, one-half teaspoon mixed mustard Separate celery and clean Look over lobster and mince. Cream butter, mix with lobster and seasonings Fill celery with this mixture. Endive may be used instead of celery if desired.

House plants need an occasional bath. Once a month water and a soft cloth should be used to remove accumulated dust from the smooth leaved varieties.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T EXPECT A SPLIT

IF TWO discards are needed on a particular suit, there is no point in playing it the way which will give you more discards if it breaks evenly in the opponents' hands, but will block the suit in case it doesn't break properly. A little foresight, including perhaps the ruffing of one round of the suit, may result in setting up enough of it to serve the purposes required.

(Dealer. South East-West vulnerable.)

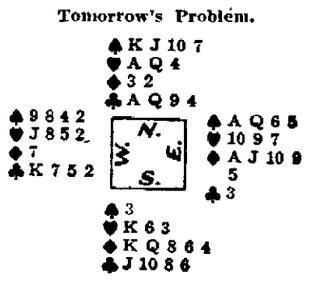
North and South reached a contract of 4-Hearts on this deal after an opening bid of 1-Heart by South, 2-Clubs by North, 2-Hearts by South, three by North and four by South.

West cashed the diamond K, diamond Q and diamond A and then switched to the spade Q, which South won with the A. He now drew three rounds of trumps with the expectation of discarding his two losing spades on the long clubs. It developed, however, that the suit was not evenly divided and furnished only one discard, so that South was set one trick.

With only one entry in the dummy outside of clubs, the declarer should have looked ahead a little and drawn only two rounds of trumps. One club ruff would then have provided for a break of 4-2 in that suit, and the trump queen would have enabled declarer to enter the dummy to cash the remaining clubs.

When buying window shades it is an excellent idea to have them made with an inch hem at top and bottom. On the top hem sew a piece of tape through which to put the tacks that secure the shade to the rolls. When soiled, shades made this way, can be easily turned upside down

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. North. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

KATIE'S FACE lighted with pleasure when I told her to decide what we should have for luncheon. But she tossed her head at my inquiry concerning Jim with the disparagement which she always affects when speaking of her husband. She would strike and scratch and hurl shrill abuse at anyone saying a word against Jim, but her own comments upon the man who so faithfully serves us are irritating to Dicky and me as they are laugh-provoking

"Vere dot Jeem?" she repeated "Dot vun question hard to answer Maybe he trying find oudt vedder bees head on hees shoulders, or vedder he hoong feet oop on nail tinking eet vas hees hat But he round someveres in barn or house You vant him? I go find heem, light nre under heem, stir hees lazy stoomps dees way"

"No, no, Katie," I interposed hastily "I don't want to see him now I'm going to be down for a few minutes. If he's around the house or barn, I'll find him when I want him."

"All right Suit yourself," she said, and though the words sounded impudent, her tone was respectful, and I knew she intended no breach of decorum "Und I feex you vun svell looncn, you see You shoost vait!"

Katie Takes Leave.

She was out of the door as she spoke, and I heard her efficient if somewhat noisy feet retreating down the hall

I set my alarm clock for an hour distant and slept soundly for almost all of the time When I awoke, I bathed and dressed, and stood outside my mother-in-law's room until I was certain, from her audible breathing, that she was safely asleep. Then I went downstairs noiselessly and peeped through the curtains to the screened porch where I saw Dicky also taking a nap to make up for the sleep he had lost.

I went through the kitchen, finding Katie deep in its rearrangement, but I did not stop to listen to her voluble indictment of Mrs. Ticer's housekeeping

"I'm going out to see Jim now," I said. "Do you think he is in the barn?"

"He say he going clean cars all oop," she said, and her face held a trace of sullenness. "Me, I vant heem to help me here, but he say cars coom first, den he coom in by me But by dot time, I have eferyting all done. He foxy guy, dot Jeem."

If I had not known how Jim waited hand and foot upon his tempestuous but lovable wife, I might have wasted sympathy upon Katie But I knew that when he had done his own chores, he would work shoulder to shoulder with her the rest of the day, so I contented himself with saying nonchalantly, "Oh, I'm sure he'll be in shortly," and then went out-of-doors and down the winding walk to the barn.

There I found Jim busy washing a car, but when he saw me, he turned off the hose and came toward me with his usual slow walk, but with distinct pleasure in his face. He drew back his hand when I offered mine, with a muttered excuse about it's not being clean, but I kept mine out until he shook hands with me.

"It's good to see you back, Jim," I said warmly and truthfully.

Unusual Question.

"I'm glad to come back," he answered "There's no place like home"

"Are you terribly busy, Jim?" I asked, and was conscious that I was suddenly embarrassed by the bizarre thing I wished to ask of him.

"No, not a bit, nothing that can't wait."

"Then— I hesitated, and then went straight to the point, blurting out my question baldly.

"What is the quickest way you can put a car out of commission, Jim?"

"Shooting up the tires"

I stared at him, and then I laughed

"That isn't what I mean," I said. "I wouldn't want to do that much damage. Besides, new tires could be procured quickly. I mean could you damage a car so that it wouldn't cost terribly much to repair, but would take over a day before it would run again?"

Delicious beef juice is made by adding 1 pound of fresh raw finely chopped round steak without fat to 6 ounces of cold water. Add a pinch of salt, put the beef and water in a glass jar and stand it on ice, over night. Shake and strain it through coarse muslin, squeezing hard to obtain all the juice.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, November 20.

UNFAVORABLE circumstances are likely to arise today, judging by the ominous planetary aspects. There is a menace to personal danger born of questionable contacts, especially with members of the opposite sex. Be discreet with strangers and shun all business as well as personal jeopardy.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a hazardous year, with danger from indiscreet behavior, particularly in entanglements with the opposite sex Be wary, using much wisdom in contacts with strangers.

A child born on this day may be changeable and unsettled, with much of its movements instigated by unguarded emotional stirrings.

COCOANUT HAYSTACKS — Two cups sugar, one-half cup cream, one-half cup white corn syrup, one cup milk, one tablespoon vinegar, six cups shredded cocoanut, three tablespoons butter. Combine sugar, cream, syrup, milk and butter in saucepan and place over low flame. Cook, stirring constantly. When sugar is melted and syrup boiling, add vinegar and continue to cook, stirring all the while, until a small amount of syrup forms a medium soft ball when tested in cold water (240 degrees F.). Place about one-fourth of mixture into small bowl, keeping remainder soft over hot water. Work in lightly as much cocoanut as syrup will take up (about one and one-half or two cups). Divide into equal amounts; drop on oiled surface and shape into cones or triangles. Continue until all syrup and cocoanut are used.

Russia Rewards Coal Miners With Premiums.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Premiums and prizes have been awarded to 14,000 coal miners in the Donetz basin by Lazar Kaganovich, commissar of heavy industry, to stimulate lagging production.

When Kaganovich was commissar of railroads, the policy was to shoot railroaders who upset the system by accidents and bad work. Now his successor, Alexei Bakulyn, also is awarding prizes. He recently distributed 200 watches to railway Stakhonovites (shock workers).

MARKETS OFFER WIDE VARIETY OF FOODS FOR HOLIDAY MENUS

If the housewife has difficulty making out her Thanksgiving menu, it probably will be because of the wide variety of fruits, vegetables, meats and other food items from which she may make her choice.

After selecting her bird—turkey, goose, duck or chicken—and oysters, there are still vegetables and fruits. To simplify the latter, a number of stores will make up baskets containing holiday fruits and nuts. There will be several kinds of apples, grapes, persimmons, pears, oranges, red bananas, kumquats, dates and figs.

Old fashioned dried sweet corn and fresh hominy, traditional Thanksgiving dishes, will be found in the markets. A fresh supply of fine Jersey sweet potatoes and quality cranberries will be shipped to Mansfield merchants for this week-end and through the holiday.

Little bunches of fresh mint and parsley and water cress will decorate rows of cauliflower, green peas, Lima beans, hot house tomatoes, new radishes and green onions. And there will be an abundance of Pascal celery.

Several kinds of squash, including some new summer squash, will make their appeal for the menu. For "greens" there are kale and mustard leaves and spinach, and for salads, endive, celery cabbage, French endive, and head and leaf lettuce.

Okra, Brussel sprouts, egg plant, broccoli and green beans offer suggestions for week-end shoppers.

Among the luxuries that will be offered at several places are chestnuts, cantaloupes, artichoke, avacado, and mushrooms, and possibly a few honeydew melons

WEAR GLOVES

Customs Officers Suffer From Hand Disease Epidemic.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Five thousand British customs officers belonging to the "waterguard" section which examines ships arriving are to wear kid gloves on duty. An epidemic of dermatitis of the hands, spreading among them is ascribed to searching the insanitary belongings of foreign seamen and low-grade passengers.

SMART TO ACT DUMB, SHE SAYS

'Don't Be a Smarty,' Girl, 14, Warns Youngsters.

FAIRBURN, Ga.—(AP)—"Don't be a 'smarty'" is Martha Bledsoe's advice to girls everywhere.

Martha is only 14 and has been pretty busy getting to be a high school senior and the Georgia spelling champion at this age but she has had time to figure out the following:

"It takes a pretty smart girl to know when to act dumb. The smarter she is the less she will exhibit it.

"There are times when she might cultivate a mild stupidity.

"Boys don't like smart girls."

MACHINE RUNS, TEACHERS RELAX

Robot Automatically Grades Students' Papers.

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—A robot that automatically grades students' papers is making life easier for professors at the University of Texas.

The robot can grade only certain types of tests in which the student merely checks the right, or wrong, answer with a pencil.

As papers are fed into the machine by an operator, an electrically controlled device counts the number of correct answers and grades the papers when they come out.

AIM TOO GOOD

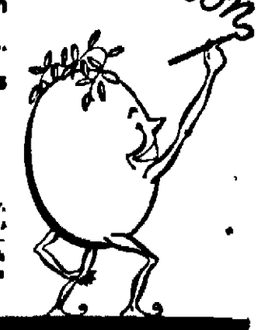
Boy Trains Air Rifle on Bullet; Wounds Hand.

DUNCAN, Okla.—(U.P.)—Paul Menaul, jr., 17, picked a poor target to use in practicing with his air rifle. The high school student levelled his rifle at a .45 caliber pistol cartridge a few feet away and pulled the trigger. His marksmanship was perfect, and the result was a wounded hand.

The Fruit of the Season

Fresh cranberries are now on sale at fruit and grocery stores.

Cranberry Orange Relish is tasty — no cooking.



1 pound (4 cups) cranberries — 1 to 1½ oranges, 2 cups sugar

METHOD: Put cranberries through meat grinder. Pare orange with sharp knife; remove seeds; trim off white membrane (leaving the pulp exposed on the surface). Put rind and pulp through grinder, mix with sugar and berries. Let stand a few hours before serving.

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup Spry
3 tablespoons cold milk (about)
1 tablespoon butter
3 large tart apples, thinly sliced
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup honey
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Sift flour and salt together. Add ½ of Spry to flour. Cut in Spry until mixture is as fine as meal. Easy as can be with triple-creamed Spry! Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. No need to chill ingredients, yet Spry pastry is the most flaky and tender you ever tasted! Sprinkle milk, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed.

Roll dough into a rectangle about 10 x 12 inches and ¼-inch thick. Spread with butter, then with sliced apples. Mix sugar, spices and salt. Sprinkle over apples. Mix honey and lemon juice and pour over apples. Roll like jelly roll and seal edge of dough. Place in 12 x 7½ x 2-inch baking dish greased with Spry. Prick roll with fork. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 to 40 minutes. And remember, only Spry can give you such wonderfully tender, flaky pastry as this! Serve warm. Serves 8.

ITALY OUTLINES NEW ETHIOPIAN CHURCH SET-UP

Military Affairs Over at Least Temporary, Religion Now Under Study.

ROME — (U.P.) — With military and civil problems in Ethiopia clarified at least for the time being, Italian authorities are turning their attention to the religious question in the new empire.

Just as relations between the Roman Catholic church and the Fascist state were adjusted to separate the temporal from the spiritual, so will the strong Coptic church in East Africa be reorganized in order to "render unto Ceasar the things that are Ceasar's and to God the things that are God's."

Until Italy marched its legions into Addis Ababa, the Coptic church was the most powerful single ruling unit in Ethiopia. The church taxed, punished, rewarded, gave and took away privileges, acted as arbiter in purely secular controversies and handled most of those problems that temporal powers ordinarily do

Old Order Must End

Now that Italy has firmly established itself in East Africa, the old order must necessarily come to an end and the church be so reorganized as to strengthen and centralize the control of the state

The Coptic church ranks second in importance in East Africa, preceded only by Mohammedanism. The Moslems head the list with 4,200,000 followed by the Copts with 3,000,000, of whom 2,700,000 are in Ethiopia proper. There are 350,000 classified as Pagans, 30,000 as Roman Catholics and 20,000 as other sects.

As in Italy since the signing of the Lateral Accords with the Holy see, the government wants the education of youth in East Africa to be entrusted to the state far from any church influence

Furthermore, the reorganization will curtail the power and influence of the Coptic priests and ecclesiastics and eliminate all kinds of privileges enjoyed by the church in the days of the Negus

PREDICTS TELEVISION WILL BE FAMILY BYWORD IN THREE YEARS

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—If the predictions of Major Lenox R. Lohr, president of the National Broadcasting company, come true, then television and television sets will be a family byword within three years from now.

"My guess is from one to three years," said the major when asked how far away he thought television was from the average American.

"Before it becomes practicable, certain technical, programming and economical problems must be solved," he said but immediately pointed out that technical problems are well on their way to solution.

"Improvements are being made almost daily," the broadcasting firm head said. "We have 100 television sets in the homes of company officials and others."

An "altogether new technique, new makeup and scenery methods" will be necessary when the picture-radio combination is fully developed for everyday use.

"Under television, scenes must change instantly. It won't be like motion pictures, in which hours of preparation can come between scenes. Such a system must be expensive, for the eye is more sensitive that the ear.

"The public has been educated by the movies and the radio to expect the finest quality of production, and they will expect it of the infant television industry. They will not want a long period of experimentation"

MASSILLON, CANTON IN 'BIG GAME'

Mansfield More Than Mildly Interested In Outcome of Saturday's Tilt.

By OSCAR RUHL

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

NO HIGH school football game in Ohio attracts the attention of the annual Massillon-Canton McKinley conflict. The renewal of their torrid rivalry will be an event of Saturday, and not only are Massillon and Canton all excited about the impending tussle, but other cities as well.

Mansfield is particularly interested in the game this year due to the fact that the Tygers held Massillon to a tie. Mansfielders are pulling for a Massillon victory, naturally, and chances are many will be in Lehman stadium in Canton to lend encouragement to the Tigers.

On a comparison of records, Canton deserves to be favored. It is undefeated, and has permitted its goal line to be crossed only once. A defeat by New Castle and the tie with Mansfield mar the Massillon record.

Regardless of Canton's superior record, Massillon cannot be underrated. In fact, this department picks the Tigers to put the first blot on the Canton slate.

If Massillon fails, Canton will undoubtedly be awarded the mythical state championship.

Few Idle Moments In This Game of Hockey

THERE is something about a hockey game that is fascinating. The game is not complicated by a long list of rules, but it is probably the most exciting sport in existence today.

There are few idle minutes when two well-balanced teams start chasing the puck up and down the ice. Spills are plentiful. It is a wonder that there are no more casualties as the participants bump each other all over the ice.

The new Cleveland Arena provides a perfect setting for the game. One of the finest ice palaces in the world, the spacious Arena can accommodate 9,700 spectators comfortably and a clear view of the action is provided from every seat. There are no posts to hinder views.

One of the reasons for the popularity of the ice game is the continuous action. There are no lengthy time-outs except for rest between periods. Hockey teams are not permitted to call time to discuss some pertinent bit of strategy as in other sports. The denial of this privilege makes the sport the most strenuous of modern games.

The new hockey spectator is first impressed by the skating ability of the players. Then his attention is attracted by the team work, the passing and blocking. And by the time the game is finished, the new fan has a pretty good idea what the game is all about. It is that simple.

It is a game that cannot be played indoors in every locality. Few cities own buildings large enough in whih to build a rink, and the cost of installing equipment to manufacture ice makes the game costly to sponsor, but hockey, we predict, will continue to gain in popularity. It has the "ummph"—that something—that the spectators like.

Smith's Re-Election Ends Stormy Battle

THE re-election of Harry Smith to the presidency brings another stormy battle to a close in the Ohio State league.

Attempts have been made to unseat Smith ever since the circuit was organized, but he continues to hang on, and it is probably just as well.

The Columbus man is not a perfect president, by any means. He has his faults, but he's doing the best he can with the little finances voted him, probably a lot better than several of the candidates who were proposed.

The chief trouble with the league seems to be the attempts of a minority to run things according to their wishes.

HEAVY DATES —By MUN

FIFTEEN OHIO ELEVENS CLOSE SKEDS SATURDAY

Bucks Play Finale at Ann Arbor, While Dayton Is Host to Marshall In Headliners.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Fifteen Ohio college teams bow out of the 1937 grid campaign Saturday as 10 contests are offered on the Buckeye front, leaving but seven to carry on through the Thanksgiving day menu of four games. Thirteen other team completed their chores last Saturday or the week before.

The heavy guns will boom Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich., where Ohio State winds up its Big Ten drive against the Wolverines, and at Dayton where Marshall's "Thundering Herd" battles it out with Dayton's Flyers for the Buckeye conference championship.

The other eight events, in comparison to the top-flight games, are but minor skirmishes, despite the fact five of them are in the Buckeye and Ohio conferences.

The Ohio loop championship fell into the hands of Baldwin-Wallace a week ago, erasing much of the interest from the four league games still remaining, while the Ohio Wesleyan-Ohio university Buckeye clash at Athens has no bearing on the title in that circuit.

Marietta at Ashland.

Ohio conference frays, which drop the curtain on that loop's activities for the year, take Marietta to Ashland, Heidelberg to Wittenberg, Denison to Oberlin, and Muskingum to Mt. Union. Non-league affairs are Western Reserve vs. John Carroll at Cleveland, Akron vs. Xavier at Cincinnati, and Washington and Jefferson at Wooster.

Of all those contests, only the Akron-Xavier tilt claims exceptional interest. The Rubber City Zippers, should they win over the Musketeers, will be in a position to claim all or half of the unofficial state title. Dayton is tied with Akron with seven wins in eight starts, and if both win Saturday they will finish in a deadlock.

The big Dayton-Marshall tilt is slated to attract about 15,000 fans, the largest crowd in the history of the Flyers. Dayton can take the Buckeye crown with a win or a tie, while Marshall must win to take the undisputed championship.

Leave for Michigan.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt named 38 players to entrain this morning for Michigan. The Bucks, if they beat Michigan for the fourth straight year, are certain of second place in the Big Ten, and if Wisconsin upsets Minnesota Saturday, Ohio can take the undisputed laurels.

Miami, Cincinnati, Western Reserve, Case, Wilberforce, Toledo and Xavier have Thanksgiving day games on tap.

HOCKEY RESULTS

Saturday Will Mark Big Day for Seniors

Tygers Playing Last Game Will Get Big Thrill of Career at Stadium Field.

SATURDAY afternoon . . . as you watch the final curtain descending on another Mansfield high school football season . . . thrills aplenty will be yours.

Elusive halfbacks will break away on game-wrecking touchdown jaunts . . . teams will make stonewall stands in the shadow of their goal.

If you are a football student . . . and know what really goes on out there between the chalk lines . . . you'll get a kick out of a fine bit of blocking . . . or some neat line play.

But there are a couple of thrills that you won't see . . . but they'll be there just the same . . . wrapped up in the hearts of those kids the seniors.

* * * * *

ONE OF the big thrills will come . . . at least once on every gridiron as the closing minutes of the game arrive . . . when a coach looks down toward the end of the bench and says, "Hey, Joe!" . . . to some youngster huddled in a blanket.

For "Joe" will be the senior who never made the grade . . . the kid who practiced as "cannon fodder" for the varsity for a couple of years . . . and seldom got in a game.

You probably never heard of him . . . or never gave him much thought if you did . . . for he wasn't a first-stringer. But the coach knows . . . and Joe's teammates know . . . that a harder worker . . . and more loyal football son never wore his alma mater's colors.

But tomorrow . . . win, lose or draw . . . you can bet that Joe will be in the game. Maybe for just a minute if it's close . . . maybe for longer if the team is far in front or far behind.

Thrill . . . well, you can't get in on that one . . . for it's the private thrill of Joe and his coach . . . two guys who understand each other.

* * * * *

THE OTHER thrill . . . and it isn't for the public eye either . . . comes after the final shot has sounded . . . the fans are homeward bound . . . and the teams are back in the locker room.

There . . . the heat of battle over . . . those kids will look at each other for a minute . . . and grimy hands will reach for other grimy hands for a silent handshake . . . as they realize that the season's over . . . that the team is no longer a team but just a bunch of boys . . . a gang of kids with a lump in their throats.

Through the season the locker room is a place of horseplay and back slapping . . . but tomorrow . . . it will be a different tale. They take football seriously . . . these kids . . . more seriously than they'll take the bigger game to come.

* * * * *

AND MAYBE . . . while they're all together there for the last time . . . the gruff old coach who has driven them all year will turn human . . . and maybe he'll say:

"Thanks, fellows!" . . . and then perhaps he'll explain that they should remember their football lessons . . . that everyone can't be quarterback . . . that you can't play the game alone . . . that the fellow who does the 'little' things like blocking is just as important as the one who makes the touchdowns . . . and that the same thing applies to life.

Thrills? Yes, you'll get 'em up there in the stands . . . but next year you'll be looking for new ones.

But the players . . . they'll lock theirs up and keep them . . . for tomorrow's thrill that's theirs alone is enough for a lifetime . . . and they won't forget.

Tygers Conclude Campaign At Stadium Field Saturday

Hallabrin & Company to Romp For Last Time on Grid This Season When They Meet Ashland; Mansfield Outfit Favored.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

CAPT. John Hallabrin & company, one of the state's foremost manufacturers of football victories, will conclude operations for the 1937 season at their plant at Stadium field Saturday afternoon when they attempt to produce a final triumph to hang in the Mansfield high school trophy room.

The current Mansfield pigskin machinery will roll into action for the last time this fall against the improved pigskin forces of Ashland high school, the Tygers' oldest rival on the gridiron.

Followers of the crack Mansfield eleven are talking in terms on victory this week, and the Tygers will go into the renewal of the ancient rivalry originated in 1900 as top-heavy favorites, but an interesting ball game should ensue out there on cleat-marked Stadium field.

A victory for Ashland is not impossible. However, in the event Mansfield is turned back by the inspired Ashlanders, the result can be termed as a major upset.

Upsets Occur Weekly.

But upsets occur week after week, and it doesn't pay to become over-confident. The Tygers should realize this after what occurred in the Sandusky melee.

Ashland's record does not compare with Mansfield's. The A's do not possess the power or experience of the Tygers. But they will invade Stadium field at 2:30 p. m. Saturday primed to hurdle the biggest obstacle on their schedule.

To achieve their end is another thing, though, and they will probably find the Tygers far from playful. The Tygers' object is to conclude their schedule with one of the most impressive victories of the season.

Mansfield defeated Ashland, 14 to 0, in their last meeting, and it is needless to say that it is prepared to continue its supremacy in the series in which it holds a big edge.

18 Play Final Game.

Unless a post-season game is scheduled at the last minute, the game Saturday will mark the final appearance of 18 Tygers in football livery.

In addition to the redoubtable Hallabrin, one of the state's leading scorers again this year, the seniors on the squad are Dan Stehle, Daryl Heiser, Barney Adams, Bud Zeigler, John Horvath, Elmer Dials, John Kinkel, Paul Bailet, Joe Majoy, Harold Luckie, Ray Bowersock, Ed Duncan, Earl Deems, Karl Korokney, William Baker, Robert Hamilton and Robert Hammett.

Apparently not fearful of the Mansfield passing attack, Ashland this week prepared to halt the Tygers' running game, with most of its attention directed toward plays involving Hallabrin.

Mansfield did not work on any special department of play this week, but the Tygers did a lot of throwing in practice, and they may be more air-minded than usual Saturday.

Whether Murphy will continue his practice of starting a reserve lineup remains to be seen. He has followed this practice in all but few of the Mansfield games.

Seniors Get Preference.

Regardless of what kind of a lineup gets the call, the seniors, playing their last game, will probably be given the preference as the game progresses.

While Ashland is not represented by one of its strongest teams in history, the lineup includes a fair number of pretty good individual ball players.

In Sigler, it has one of the finest ends in N. C. O. conference circles. Wicks is an outstanding guard and Welsh rates as one of the better centers in this vicinity.

The backfield consists of Burns, Highman, Chorpening and Fritzsiner. The attack is built around the latter, a first-class ball carrier, judging from what he has accomplished this season.

Blake, Sherman to Tangle In Co-Headline Match at Armory Monday.

Bobby Blake, rugged, blond lightheavyweight from Columbus and Pete Sherman, squatty little dynamiter from Kansas City, have been signed to co-headline next Monday night' wrestling show scheduled at the Armory.

Walter Stratton of Leetonia and Walter "Sneeze" Achiu, clever little Hawaiian, had been previously signed, and these four men will feature the show in a pair of matches both of which are carded for two best out of three falls with an hour and a half time limit.

Potential Dynamite.

The match between Blake and Sherman carries as much potential dynamite as does the tilt between Achiu and Stratton.

Blake, a youngster of only about four years of professional experience has been coming to the fore rapidly in recent weeks and has been stealing the spotlight from more seasoned performers in the wrestling world.

When he faces Sherman he'll be meeting a boy with a country wide reputation who on numerous occasions has shown Mansfield fans that he can carry the mail in a wrestling way.

The Stratton-Achiu contest will pit two clever offensive wrestlers against each other with Stratton featuring his superior muscular strength and Achiu flashing speed, science and trickery to a great degree.

Winner Meets Champ.

Both tilts are in the lightheavyweight tournament which is now being conducted here. The winner is to meet the world's 175 pound champion, Billy Weidner of San Francisco.

Adario Opens At Bellville

Adario high's Twin Valley league basketball representatives lift the curtain on their 1937-38 cage season Saturday night when they invade Bellville for a non-league battle.

Coach Larry Saltis has four lettermen returning from last year's team and is building his offense around Tucker and Russ Krichbaum, two of last season's chief scoring threats. Graduation cost Coach Saltis four of the 1936-37 starting men.

Hostilities in the Richland County league will get under way tonight when Lucas and Union high tangle at Union, formerly Weller high school.

NOT HARD TO TAKE

Nebraska toted 65 G's out of the Pitt game and will spend part of the dough on a new eight-acre practice field.

SAYS MR. RICHARD TALT, SHOE SALESMAN, 683 LEXINGTON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

"—until I discovered this easy way to get started early in the morning!"

"I never could get off to a good start in the morning," says Mr. Talt. "Then I heard of Ingram's and thought its 'refreshing ingredients' might turn the trick.

"It's the little things that count—and Ingram's was one of them. Ingram's had just the KICK I was looking for. It gave me a lift in the morning that stayed with me all day long. Boy, what a shave cream!"

FORM CONFERENCE FOR JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS

An athletic organization sponsoring junior high school competition was formed under the name of the Bi-County junior high school athletic association at a meeting at John Simpson junior high last night.

The association is composed of representatives of Simpson and Hedges junior highs of Mansfield, Hayesville and Perrysville. The league will promote competition for seventh and eighth grade students.

R. Y. Davis of Hedges was elected president and L. C. Rugles of Perrysville, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the organization is to foster friendly competition between the various schools and promote good sportsmanship and character among the students, Davis said.

Nearby schools interested in joining the association are requested to contact Davis at Hedges junior high school.

The association will sponsor a basketball league this season. A tentative schedule has already been drawn up, but vacancies remain for additional teams. All games will be played on Friday nights, with the opening tentatively set for Dec 3.

Marion Picked Over Bucyrus

MARION—The Presidents of Marion high will be out to cinch second place in the North Central Ohio conference race tonight when they entertain the Bucyrus gridsters under the arcs.

The game also marks the 18th annual meeting between the two combines since 1920 when Marion edged Bucyrus, 7 to 6.

A victory for Bucyrus will elevate the club from the cellar position into a tie for fourth place with Ashland.

Marion has won 10 of the games and the Redmen seven. The Presidents registered the highest score when the trounced Bucyrus, 32 to 6, in 1932. The Redmen's highest mark was chalked up the following year when they downed their rivals, 27 to 6.

Marion, who last week pulled one of the big upsets of the conference season by turning back the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets, 20 to 0, will be favored tonight, but records mean nothing when they tangle on the gridiron.

RED BIRDS WIN FINALE

The Loudonville Red Birds closed their grid season with a 14 to 0 victory over Danville in a postponed Mid-State league game Wednesday. Carter and Allerdine scored the touchdowns for the Red Birds.

Beauhuld Faces Big Test Tonight.

NEW YORK — (AP)—They're feeding Billy Beauhuld and his undefeated string of 44 straight fights to Henry Armstrong's knockout wallop in Madison Square Garden tonight, and out of the ten-round tangle may come the No. 1 challenger for Lou Ambers' lightweight crown.

The prospect for a lot of action between two of the busier little fighting fellows has Promoter Mike Jacobs jubilantly confident that the faithful will pack the big Eighth avenue arena with as many as 18,000 fans.

Rolls Record 280 Game

Schmidt of the Tire Breakers establish a new season game record in the Mansfield Tire league at Meder alleys last night with a torrid 280 score. Schmidt's score bests the former mark of 243 set by Ganyard. He accounted for a 637. Donnellan of Maintenance shot a 621.

BILLIARDS PACE LOOP

Q Team Rolls 2740 Total to Lead Scoring In Commercial League.

Team scoring honors in the Commercial B league were won by the Q Billiards with a 2740 total at the Meder alleys last night. However, the Ctemen, tied with the Mansfield Printers for second place, won only one game from the Berger Dairys, who came through with a 621 total. Hanks led the Dairys with a 621.

The Printers failed to step ahead of the Billiards as they also lost two games to the Mansfield Rugs, who spilled 2734 sticks. Unger of the Rugs, 626, and Arntz, Printers, 612, were high for their respective teams.

Led by McDiimid's 627, the Heilman Grocers rolled a 2708, which was good for a clean sweep over the Yuncker Sports.

In the other matches, the first-place Untiet Insurance club took two games from the HalBark Clothiers, the Willis Billiards swept its series with the Motor Freights and the Souther Hotel won two tilts from the Fifth Street Lunch.

PICKS YALE, NOTRE DAME

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—This corner takes one hasty, bird's-eye view of the week's football slate and calls frantically for a horse in order to emulate the famous Leacock hero who mounted his trusty steed and "galloped madly off in all directions." No equine transportation being forthcoming, it seems valor will have to bat for discretion, so here goes:

California over Stanford; Yale over Harvard; Notre Dame over Northwestern; Fordham over St. Mary's; Pittsburgh over Penn State; Dartmouth over Columbia; Syracuse over Colgate; Villanova over Temple, Navy over Princeton; Lafayette over Lehigh; Maryland over Georgetown; Minnesota over Wisconsin; Ohio State over Michigan, Illinois over Chicago; Indiana over Purdue; Nebraska over Iowa; Duquesne over Marquette; Texas Christian over Rice; Auburn over Georgia; Georgia Tech over Florida. Duke over North Carolina State; Arkansas over George Washington; Centenary over Texas Tech; Kansas State over Iowa State, Arizona over Kansas, U. C. L. A. over Southern Methodist, Washington over Oregon, and Oregon State over Washington State.

Madison, Mt. Gilead to Play In Snow Today.

A snow-covered field was a prospect today as the undefeated, untied Madison high school eleven invaded Mt. Gilead for the all-important game which will decide the Mid-State league championship. The Indians also boast an unmarred record in league play.

Although Madison was held as a slight favorite, the soggy field is expected to benefit the heavier Mt. Gilead squad.

TALK OF NEW LEAGUE

TOLEDO — (UP) — Talk of forming a Great Lakes intercollegiate conference among eight universities of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, and West Virginia, was revived today. Dr. Clarence W. Spears, University of Toledo, one of the prospective members, said such a conference would be a "natural." Paul Hinkle, Butler university, Indianapolis, said he was interested in such a plan.

Other possible members purportedly were the University of Detroit, University of Cincinnati, University of Dayton, Western Reserve, and Marshall.

GALENTO KO'S HAINES

PHILADELPHIA—Tony Galento, 214 Newark, N. J., knocked out Leroy Haines, 197½, Philadelphia, (3).

BOTTOMLEY RELEASED

ST. LOUIS—(UP)—Jim Bottomley was released today as manager and first baseman of the St. Louis Browns of the American league. Release of Bottomley cleared the way for appointment of a new manager which will be made and disclosed some time next week, DeWitt said.

AKRONITE APPOINTED

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—The appointment of Harry Pugh of Akron, O., as state commissioner to supervise the Ohio semi-professional baseball tournament at Akron next July, had the approval today of Honus Wagner, high commissioner of semi-pro ball.

PARIS—Tony Dimeglio, 139, France, outpointed Primo Carnera, 255¾, Italy, (10).

SOUNDS PLEA TO FIGHT DISEASES

Editor of Medical Journal Calls For 'Teamwork' to Curb Social Afflictions.

YOUNGSTOWN—(UP)—An appeal for a "campaign of teamwork" to stamp out venereal diseases was made last night by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association in an address delivered over the National Broadcasting system.

The time has come, he said, to prove to the world that under the American system of living such diseases may be treated in the same way as typhoid and diphtheria.

"Considerable numbers of American cities have reported an entire year without a single death from typhoid or diphtheria. We said. "We now possess the knowledge necessary to secure results that will permit a similar claim in relationship to the venereal diseases."

Fishbein was introduced by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson who last week was refused permission by NBC officials to broadcast on the same subject. Fishbein's address was the "frankest" discussion of social diseases ever allowed on the air, they said.

"It is our feeling," Lenox R. Lohr, NBC president, said, "that only persons who are authorities on the subject are qualified to present the material in terms which the general listener can accept."

In introducing Dr. Fishbein, Johnson said he had intended to speak on the subject until informed it would be delivered by an authority.

"I have been a soldier too long not to realize the importance of following orders," he said.

Mrs Lucy Johnson, aged 84, who died at Bugthorpe, England, spent the last 34 years of her life indoors, mostly in an armchair.
